COLLECTOR

Hooked on classics

A. Trafford Templeton North County News

Joe Moisi leans on his favorite car, a one-of-a-kind 1934 Packard roadster with a 1927 Ralston body.

If a car strikes Moisi's fancy, he usually buys it

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Joe Moisi always has been attracted to metal things that move. Specifically, cars, trucks and boats.

And if there's one that strikes his fancy, he usually buys it.

That's why he has more than 30 classic vehicles at his Placentia business where he sells construction equipment. It's a collection he started with a 1922 Ford Model T that he bought for $2,500 in the mid-1950s. And his collection has grown ever since.

"Some people collect horses because they love 'em. I buy cars," Moisi said.

"They give you the satisfaction of marvelous workmanship."

His collection includes a 1917 Ford Model T touring car, 1927 Model T pickup truck, 1950 Cadillac, a 1949 Ford Woody, an antique buggy, 1967 Ford Shelby Cobra, 1959 Ford Fairlane Galaxy, antique Mac trucks ranging from 1927-1951, 1932 Rio-Speed-wagon truck, 1940 Studebaker, 1950 Plymouth Doctor's Coupe, 1939 Plymouth pickup truck, a 1981 DeLorean and antique Chris-Craft boats. And that doesn't even include some of his odd vehicles such as a GMC mobile home and a golf cart.

And with every car, he has a story to tell.

He takes the most pride in his 1934 Packard roadster. The car is a one of a kind and was specially designed for John Roebling who invented the cable that supports the Brooklyn Bridge. The car has a 1934 chassis with a 1927 Ralston body.

The owner of Harrah's Casino made him an offer to buy it, but he refused the offer.

Probably the most significant car in his collection, he said, is a 1927 Packard dual cowl touring soft-top, which once was owned by actor Gary Cooper.

He bought the car in about 1955

Budget report is upbeat

District will be able to pay bills

By Bruce Bailey
North County News

The Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District's first budget report for the new fiscal year brought good news.

The report, for the period ending Oct. 31, shows the district will meet its financial obligations for the remainder of the year and its reserve fund is nearly double what was projected.

Kim Stallings, the assistant superintendent of administrative services, said the general fund's ending balance of $5,890,951 is $2,068,848 more than estimated in the budget adopted June 23.

And, the amount designated for economic uncertainties is $4,481,408, more than the minimum of $2,868,189.

The amount of the reserve fund is set by the state, Stallings said, and is based on enrollment levels. With an enrollment of about 22,000, the district's reserve is 3 percent of expenses, which are $95,606,288.

The general fund is projected to increase $4.6 million more than the adopted budget, Stallings said, mainly because of additional state revenues for average daily attendance, a reduc-

Tynes a constant vote against liquor licenses

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

When a liquor license goes to the City Council for approval, you can almost bet Councilman John Tynes will vote against it.

Recently, Tynes asked the council to review a planning commissioners' decision to allow a local market to sell beer and wine. Council members voted 5-0 on Dec. 1 to deny the market's request.

Two weeks earlier, Tynes and Mayor Maria Moreno voted against a request by the International House of Pancakes to serve beer and wine. He based his opposition on the fact that the business is a family restaurant.

And he added, "I don't think beer and wine go with pancakes."

These two instances highlight Tynes' conviction that there already are too many liquor outlets in the city. Although council members agree that fewer liquor licenses should be granted, Tynes' position is more extreme.

"(But) I'm not a prohibitionist," Tynes said.

He believes the over-concentration of alcohol in the city contributes to public drunkenness and violence, he said. Fewer liquor licenses make the problem easier to control, he said.

There are 74 liquor licenses in Placentia.

Up until a few years ago, the Santa Fe neighborhood had a 15-year history of alcohol-related offenses, Police Capt. Jim Robertson said. The offenses ranged from assault and battery to public drunkenness.

At that time the neighborhood had eight bars in a three block radius. Since the city has worked to eliminate bars, alcohol-related

Chamber executive resigns

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Michael Beaver has resigned as the Placentia Chamber of Commerce's executive director.

Beaver started with the chamber in February 1990.

His biggest accomplishment was initiating the annual Business Expo Mixer, during which local merchants showcase their services and products, he said.

"It was good for the chamber and it gave us a positive activity for the business community," Beaver said.

He also was responsible for moving the chamber office from Bradford Avenue to its current location at 201-C Yorba Linda Blvd.

In 1980, he was the economical development director for the Garden Grove Chamber of Commerce and the membership director for the Brea Chamber of Commerce from 1985-86.

His last day as executive director was Dec. 1.

Dave Musgrove, Placentia Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors president, said a committee has been formed to seek a new executive director.

"He did a lot of very good things for the chamber when he was with us. We wish him the very best," Musgrove said.

Comcast Cablevision, which serves Placentia, will raise the basic monthly service fee 65 cents for its regular cable programming and $1.29 for a new tax added by the Orange County Tax Assessor for property tax costs, said John Levandowski, Comcast Cablevision customer service representative.

Currently, the monthly basic cable rate is $30.14 with the cable box and remote control and $25.94 for a cable-ready television.

Six months ago, Comcast increased rates 75 cents per month.

PLANNING

Builders get bill for utilities

City to require money up-front

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Planning commissioners Tuesday unanimously approved a plan to require developers to pay for burying utility lines to ensure that the city won't get stuck with the bill.

Commissioners voted 6-0 to force developers to pay the costs before a project is completed. Commissioner Robert Ward was absent.

"We'll take the money today, regardless of what it will cost in the future," said Joyce Rosenthal, development services director.

For more than 30 years, the city has required all utility lines to be buried. When projects take years to complete, the city will waive burying the lines until the project is done. The delay is permitted because the cost to install small sections at different times is very costly.

The ordinance ensures that in the event a developer goes bankrupt, the city has the money ahead of time. If the developer doesn't pay, a lien is placed on the property, Rosenthal said.

If there is an additional cost upon the completion of the project, developers also will be held responsible to pay, Rosenthal said.

The amendment saves the city and developers money in the long run.

"You have to pay for that privilege even if you don't build now," Rosenthal said.

The estimated cost to underground is $150 per foot.

The item will go before the City Council for final approval.

Mayor Moreno has a full agenda

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Now that Maria Moreno is mayor, she has set her agenda for the year ahead.

Moreno intends to make herself more accessible to the public.

She plans to be available to constituents at the International House of Pancakes restaurant at Kraemer Boulevard and Chapman Avenue from 7 a.m. to 8 a.m. the first and second Friday each month. She also will be at City Hall one day per week.

And she will continue to walk precincts and talk to people. She will listen to the concerns of residents and collect data for a survey. She also plans to attend neighborhood meetings.

But public feedback isn't all she's concerned about. Moreno hopes to keep the city financially healthy.

"This is not an easy time to be mayor. This fiscal crisis is not getting better, but with open discussion Placentia can continue to be the All-America City," she said.

Increased economic development is one of her goals. She plans to work closely with the Chamber of Commerce to assist small businesses. Ultimately, she would like to strengthen existing businesses and attract new ones to beef up the sales tax base.

Transportation is another concern, she said. She wants to push for a commuter rail stop in Placentia.

And with council approval, she hopes to form an earthquake preparedness committee to train the disabled and senior citizens in the event of an earthquake.

One long-term objective is to help ex-offenders assimilate back into society through literacy programs at the library. She already is working with at-risk youths to keep them out of gangs.

"It's never too late to provide the tools for people to better themselves," she said.

Moreno also plans to increase police visibility in crime-ridden

North County News

Sheran Closson and George Ziegler are the Placentia Chamber of Commerce's 1992-93 Citizens of the Year.

"It was totally unexpected," Closson said. "I was so surprised."

Closson, who has served as a volunteer for 25 years, said it's important to recognize those who work for free to better the community.

Closson has served as the Placentia Round Table Women's Club vice president and financial secretary for the district of California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Closson also is a member of the Welcome Wagon, Yorba Linda Republican Women and Parliamentary Study Club.

In addition to her memberships,

Closson drives senior citizens to medical appointments and helps them with grocery shopping and house cleaning.

She also has volunteered her time to school activities such as band fund-raisers and was a Cub Scout den mother.

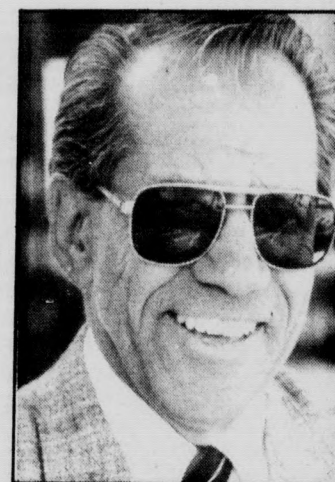

Closson urges people to volunteer their time even if they have full-time jobs.

Ex-smoker tries to help youth quit

Cessation groups meet each week

By Tenny Tatusian
North County News

If Keith Pendell didn't smoke for 27 years maybe he wouldn't be so passionate about his cause.

If he didn't have friends and relatives who died from lung cancer it's possible he'd be more relaxed about the issue.

But he did. And he does. That's why Pendell works so hard to help teen-agers kick the tobacco habit.

"Tobacco is a drug," Pendell said. "People just don't understand that because it's legal and it's available and it's cheap."

"More and more young people smoke despite dangers they don't think pertains to them."

Pendell, 50, works with 10 school districts in Orange County developing both an anti-smoking curriculum and training teachers to run their own support groups for students trying to quit.

In the cessation groups, students meet once a week for an hour during the regular school day. Getting teen-agers to stop smoking is vastly different than talking adults out of the habit, Pendell said.

"Kids don't realize the seriousness of the problem. Consequently, the fear of death and dying are not relevant to the young person," he said.

The clincher is vanity, he added. "They'll worry about having bad breath or their clothes smelling like smoke. I motivate them through the senses."

Pendell started smoking when he was 18 years old. "I had to start before college because I wanted to be hip," he quipped.

"By the time the surgeon general's report came out in 1964 saying that tobacco was dangerous I was addicted."

Calling it an addiction is not an exaggeration, Pendell said. "Tobacco is more addictive than heroin."

He tried to quit many times before successfully dropping the habit at age 45. Now, tobacco is his life.

Aside from the work he does with school districts such as Brea Olinda, Placentia Yorba Linda, Orange, Anaheim, La Habra and Fullerton, he works with schools in San Diego and is public education chairman for the American Cancer Society.

And his resume goes on. He wrote Proposition 99, mandating schools to become tobacco free by 1996. The legislation passed in 1989. He helps organize sting operations to catch retailers selling cigarettes to underage consumers and those selling single cigarettes.

"I'm teaching and I'm educating and maybe I'm saving someone's life," Pendell said. "I've seen so much death and destitution from tobacco that I'd really like to save someone from the agony of it."

In the pilot student groups, his success rate so far has been 43 percent. In the adult programs that he runs, the success rate is 89 percent.

Rain floods intersections, but no serious damage reported

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Although no major damage was reported in Placentia from the rain storm that hit the Southland Monday, it did present a few inconveniences for some motorists.

The storm dump more than 3½ inches of rain on the city.

There were four traffic accidents with no serious injuries, said Sgt. Jay Fricke.

Flooding was the major problem. Flooding forced the closure of the northbound lane of Richfield Road at Orangethorpe Avenue from 7:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., Fricke said.

Fire fighters responded to three reports of flooding and cleared the storm drains for better drainage. In many cases, firefighters spent the day clearing storm drains before the flooding started, said Kathleen Cha, Orange County Fire Department spokeswoman.

"There wasn't anything real major. We were lucky," Fricke said.

Snack tax repeal ends school food confusion

By Bruce Bailey
North County News

The recent repeal of the snack tax may not have sent wild cheering crowds into the street.

But for the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District's food services department, the repeal makes things a lot simpler.

Donna Mosino, food services director, said when the snack tax went into effect, the task of separating what was and wasn't taxable and changing the department's accounting methods was a big adjustment.

For example, when the new law became effective in July 1991, it repealed several food item exemptions, such as snack foods, and broadened the definition of taxable items to include candy, confections and non-medicated gum, Mosino said.

Snack foods include only items sold in a condition suitable for consumption without additional processing, such as cooking, heating or thawing.

The tax created much Baked or fried cakes and pies prepared in individual serving sizes or cut into single-serving sizes and prepackaged were taxable, Mosino said. But, if each piece of pie or cake were cut by food service workers and served as ordered, it wasn't taxable.

Knowing the good gifts for children confusing

By Tenny Tatusian
North County News

Benjamin and Greta Krosh looked confused as they walked through the aisles of a busy discount store looking for Christmas presents for their two children.

Hushed squabbles and tense looks seemed to convey their frustration in picking appropriate toys for daughter, Michelle, and son, Thomas.

"We've always said we wanted them to play with toys that are healthy for them and their natural development," Greta Krosh said. "We promised each other that this year we would make sure we bought them only good things, not just the cheap thrills they get from some of this stuff."

But knowing what the good things are can be as perplexing as a difficult math equation.

Toys that are in vogue are not always suitable for healthy child development, said Nancy Erickson, a child development specialist for the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District.

"It's not unusual for parents to pick a terrific toy that they've invested a whole lot of money in and watch their kids spend more time playing with the box it came in," she said.

Erickson warns parents not to be easily taken in by toys that claim to be educationally developed.

She recommends toys that are flexible and open-ended. Unlike toys aimed for a single purpose, such as those advertised for their education value, the ones she recommends can have many different uses.

For example, a cash register can be used by younger children to bang coins into and press buttons. Older children can use it to "play store."

Wood blocks also fall in this flexible category. Younger children will bang the blocks together for noise while older children will build bridges.

"The best toys are those that have longevity, those that have no prescribed sense of right and wrong," Erickson said.

She advises parents to stay away from battery-operated toys because they are usually one-dimensional and come with an adult sense of rules and usage.

"These limit the number of ways they can be worked," she added.

Traditional toys, such as jump ropes, are always a good idea, Erickson said. And other non-traditional gifts can be both economical and helpful for children.

they've probably missed several opportunities to make their communities a lot better," she said.

After of quarter of a century of volunteering, Closson has no plans to retire.

"I'm just getting good at it," she said.

She plans to focus on the needs of senior citizens.

This is Ziegler's second nomination. He did not win last year.

Ziegler has been active in the community for 16 years. He is a member of the Placentia Rotary, which raises money for scholarships, and the Placentia Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, which helps to promote small businesses.

He served seven years on City Council and was selected by the mayors of 26 Orange County cities to serve as president of the Orange County League of Cities.

And, he volunteered his time to schools.

"I think it's rewarding. I think anyone who takes from the community should give back to the community. Everybody can do that in their own way," Ziegler said.

Each year, the city's clubs and organizations nominate those people they believe have contributed to the community.

Those nominations, which include a biography of the candidate's contributions and accomplishments, are submitted to the chamber and a judging committee decides the winners. This year, six organizations submitted nominations.

TRANSPORTATION

Cities eligible for Measure M funds for streets

By Anne M. Peterson
North County News

Cities soon will compete for county funds to ease congestion on local streets.

Through the Orange County Transportation Authority's Signal Improvement Program, cities will have until April to vie for a portion of $2.5 million in Measure M funds designated for street improvements.

The Measure M Streets and Roads Program is specifically earmarked for traffic signal improvements. Improvements to ease traffic on streets include signal timing, master signal controllers and signal interconnection.

Last year, signal improvements were most popular in the growth management area program. About 21 signal improvement projects were submitted by cities and counties.

The Authority will decide in May and June which cities qualify for funds. Cities will be able to begin signal improvements by July 1.

In 1989, the agency approved 39 signal coordination projects totaling $3.9 million from the Orange County Unified Transportation Trust Program. Major projects that year were Katella Avenue from the San Gabriel River (I-605) Freeway to the Orange (57) Freeway and Moulton Parkway from Pacific Coast Highway to Harvard Avenue.

The agency allotted $5 million in Measure M sales tax money for signal coordination for fiscal year 1993-94. The amount is double the expected annual allocation because last year's Measure M receipts were held over for the program.

Eligible signal projects will be those that make green and red lights responsive to traffic or coordinate successive signals along a thoroughfare.

All Orange County cities and the county may apply for the Measure M funds. Participants, however, must provide 20 percent of matching funds for the projects.

SCHOOLS: Good news on budget

tion of the estimated property tax and the granting of a waiver for the 1991-92 class size penalty. The waiver alone saved $420,338, Stallings said.

The federal income is projected to increase by $426,541, Stallings said, mainly in grants carried over from the 1991-92 year and new grants. State grants, a $9 increase in the lottery level to $79 per student and increases in special education income created a $979,711 increase in state funding.

Local income sources are projected to increase by $542,542, mainly through additional interest income, residual redevelopment income, donations, transportation fees and a ground lease for a cellular phone system.

Expenses are projected to increase $2.4 million more than the adopted budget, Stallings said.

An 8 percent increase in electricity and water costs sent the utilities bill up $177,000 and three new restricted categorical grants, additional staffing and step increases for certified and classified employees cost another $2.2 million.

In other action, board members: ■ Unanimously approved an agreement to provide bus services to the Brea Olinda district. The expected revenue is $6,800;

■ Unanimously approved a request by the Southern California Water Co. for a permanent easement on the Bernardo Yorba Junior High School for a below-ground water booster station. The district will receive a one-time payment of $6,000, Stallings said;

■ Unanimously elected Bill Kielty as board president and Judy Miner vice president for the 1992-93 school year. Craig Olson was appointed clerk; and

■ Unanimously approved awarding a bid to Alcorn Fencing Co. for $23,575 for fencing at Valencia High School.

CARS: Collector is hooked on the classics

FROM 1

for $4,500 at a Mercedes dealership in Santa Ana. Cooper traveled as far as the Orient with his car. He sold it in Hawaii to the owners of Hawaiian Punch and it was later shipped to California.

Moisi finds satisfaction in classic cars. He enjoys looking at the classic lines and admiring the craftsmanship. But most of all, he likes driving them.

But Joe Moisi isn't the only one in his family who is an avid car enthusiaist; his daughter Bev Ann Moisi-Leuenberger is a collector too.

She owns a 1934 Packard convertible coupe and a 1981 DeLorean. She also collects horses.

One of her father's favorite past-times is going on classic car tours, she said. The time he spends with his collection is therapeutic.

"That's what keeps him young," Moisi-Leuenberger said.

Often, one of Moisi's cars can be seen in Placentia's annual Heritage Days Parade.

For Moisi, the classic cars an important part of history. He's fascinated when children look at one of his cars in awe because of how they differ from today's cars.

"When you can accomplish something that brings memories to people, that's my idea of satisfaction," he said.

Unlike many classic car owners who store their classic in a garage and occasionally wipe them with a baby diaper, he plans to keep driving them.

"We enjoy driving our cars, that's what they're for," he said.

ALCOHOL: Tynes a sure 'no' to liquor bids

FROM 1

problems have diminished, Robertson said.

"We don't have a concentration anymore," Robertson said.

Tynes said he has pushed for the redevelopment of the Santa Fe area for years and doesn't want "to see it slide backward by giving liquor licenses to every building down there."

Even though the problems there have declined considerably, he still believes there is a "heavy concentration (of liquor establishments) all over the city."

Moreno, who was recently appointed to the Orange County Alcohol and Drug Advisory Board, said that she makes a distinction between the sale of alcohol at restaurants and mini-markets where gasoline is sold.

"I view each case on an individual basis," Moreno said.

Councilman Norman Eckenrode said he doesn't want Placentia to mirror Los Angeles, where there's a liquor store on every block.

The council wants to curtail off-site consumption, but it's more difficult to police that than alcohol consumption at a restaurant, Eckenrode said.

"We've always felt as a council that oil and alcohol don't mix," Eckenrode said.

IN OUR OPINION

A DEBATE

Our stand against public parks turns some heads

Debating the issue of public, tax-supported, parks has been a regular feature in Freedom Newspaper viewpoint columns throughout the years. Many have supported these stands against public parks. Others have been adversaries in the debates.

None was so detracting than two women who visited our La Habra office one summer day about eight years ago. When they first arrived the women were gracious in their mannerisms, so the tone of verbiage they unleashed was unexpected.

It was obvious these women had something to say. None of it was flattering to the newspaper or the editor. Leaving out the strong language, here is what the women were trying to get across: "We need public parks. Without them many of us would have no area for recreation and relaxation."

This is a misnomer, of course.

Many of us can remember the private parks that existed in our childhoods, before government insisted that neighborhood parks were a must for the good of the community.

The women were told of many private parks, some which still exist today and others which have since closed their gates. They were told of Red Bridge Park in Chambersburg, Penna. Williams Grove Park and other private parks in the East were also made known to them.

Unlike public parks that are subsidized by taxes, these private parks existed and survived on gate fees and fees from use of specialized facilities inside the parks, such as swimming pools and roller skating rinks. Picnics and hiking came with the admittance fee at the gate.

Both ladies seemed astounded that such parks could exist. Unable to convince them otherwise, they still insisted that the only way to assure public parks are available to everyone is to have government provide them.

And they couldn't lead us into their field of thinking, either. We still believe it is wrong to force anyone to help pay for the recreation of others.

However, we might be convinced to look at public parks differently if they were not subsidized by the legal plundering of our pocketbooks by the power brokers of government and instead supported solely by the users.

CLEVER'S COMMENTS

WEATHER

Come rain or high water, the speed must go on

By Don J. Clever
Editorial and commentary director

"Slow down there neighbor, it's raining!" That might have been the battle cry for those of us who were trying to be cautious during a driving rainstorm early Monday morning.

From the people I've talked with, many drivers ignored the seriousness of the rainfall, causing anxiety for some who watched as "accidents" passed by them looking for a place to happen.

My own personal experience early Monday morning came on my drive through the city of Orange on Santiago Canyon Road. The speed limit on the stretch of roadway is 35 miles-per-hour. Many of the folks driving that stretch were moving along at a conservative about 25 mph.

Then there were the others — the daredevils of the highways. Not only were they not holding their driving speed to the posted limit, they added a few mph. Even a school bus went whizzing by us "slow pokes" at a speed conservatively estimated at 45 mph. The bus was empty, except for the driver. I wondered to myself whether the driver would have slowed down had he had students on board.

A friend of mine told of similar experiences on Yorba Linda Boulevard. Speed on the boulevard is posted at 40 mph. He said he is accustomed to motorists using Yorba Linda Boulevard at freeway speeds during good weather. But he was unprepared to see the freeway speed in such bad conditions.

Another motorist told of a similar experience on Tustin Avenue with its 35 mph posted limit.

The severe storm that flooded the area should have been enough to scare most folks into conservative driving. But it's apparent that some drivers are incapable of rational thinking even in the rain.

ISSUES/ANSWERS

COMMUNITY

No matter how great some see their city, others will have an opposite view. Some see some bad and some good in their community.

QUESTION: What is good or bad about the City of Placentia?

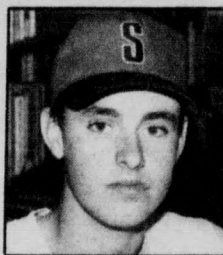

Asked at Placentia Library

Nina Agarwal, 14, clown
"Placentia has a nice big library."

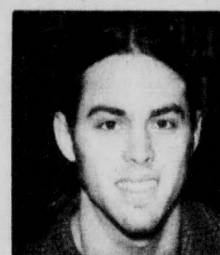

Vickie Agarwal, 40, bank officer
"It's a small, scenic, friendly town. I like the school district too."

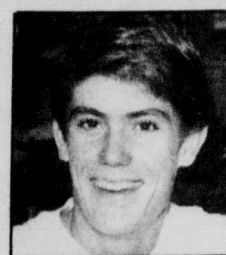

Ben Conroy, 15, student
"I wish they'd get rid of the graffiti and the gangs that are in Placentia."

Pradee Bhadsable, 41, electrical engineer
"It's a peaceful town with an excellent educational system."

Joel Clelland, 20, student
"Almost all of the businesses in Placentia have geared their services toward a friendly atmosphere. We're really winners I think."

Jeff Smith, 18, life-guard, bag boy and student
"I like Placentia because it's just like an All American town. Everybody knows everybody almost, and it's just a great town."

MAYOR: Moreno promises to keep in touch with people

FROM 3

neighborhoods to reduce gang violence.

Although her predecessor, Councilman John Tynes, does not view the mayorship as a "big deal," he's optimistic.

"Regardless of who's mayor I think we'll have a good year," Tynes said.

"This is not an easy time to be mayor. This fiscal crisis is not getting better, but with open discussion Placentia can continue to be the All-America City."

Things you find beyond an umbrella

Hello everyone! Looks like it might rain, sky is turning gray and my friend, Connie Underhill, has put a tarp over her stack of firewood, so we'll see if her actions are a sure rain predictor.

Taking a look around town without an umbrella, I spotted the new Office Depot building (across from Home Depot), almost ready for opening day. The Exxon station at Nutwood and Placentia avenues is now vacant. No, Mobil won't be moving in, Vic have permanently moved to Anaheim. Why can't closed gas station buildings be used to shelter homeless from the cold and rain? I know there are a number of reasons why but think about it a minute ... Why can't obstacles be at least talked about. Who knows, those obstacles might not be so overwhelming after all.

Happy, happy birthday wishes to a very special person, Bill Dameron, from me and all your friends from ET. Happy birthday to Andrew Mawhinney and good luck on your finals! Happy birthday wishes to Placentia Linda Guild members Dorothy Modoff, Sandy Cottrell, Mary Ellen Myers, Lisa Artnier, Patricia Shim, Janet Aubuchon and Darlene Aronson.

And first place goes to Helen Chrismore for her abstract (mixed media) painting and second place to Idell Landrum's oil "Pretty Bird." Barbara Kimmell placed third with "Dogwoods and Butterfly" (watercolor), and Rose Mary Massey received popular choice award for her oil "Foggy Lighthouse." All are members of the Placentia Art Association.

CHARITY

CAN DO ATTITUDE

Former pastor Norm Whan and Rich Glasgow, pastor at Brea Friends Church, stack some of the canned food that has been donated to the "Canning Hunger" program. The project calls for one volunteer to collect canned goods once a month from 50 neighbors. Whan and Glasgow calculate that 15,000 volunteers working three hours per month could theoretically feed the county's 380,000 hungry.

Placentia man's program would help feed the hungry in county

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Norm Whan has cooked up a way to can hunger. In what appears to be a cross between Neighborhood Watch and Scouting for Food, Whan devised Canning Hunger, a project calling for one volunteer to collect canned goods once a month from 50 neighbors.

The donations, in turn, are delivered to a reputable charity agency.

By Whan's calculations, 15,000 volunteers working three hours per month among the nearly 750,000 homes in Orange County could theoretically feed the county's 380,000 hungry.

Sound a bit idealistic? Brea Friends Pastor Richard Glasgow doesn't think so. Last month, Glasgow invited 18 families to test the program in their neighborhoods. They returned with 200 pounds of food.

"We are finding people have this willingness to share if it's made convenient for them," Glasgow said.

By Whan's calculations, 15,000 volunteers working three hours per month among the nearly 750,000 homes in Orange County could theoretically feed the county's 380,000 hungry.

The prototype for the all-volunteer effort was mapped out by Whan and his sons, Jeff and Rocky, in his Church Growth Development International offices on Lambert Road in Brea. Fliers that remind residents of collection dates are coordinated with church logs.

Whan, a Placentia resident, said his original premise was to build a volunteer base among churches. "It's easy to network with them, and at the same time, it's a great opportunity for the church to increase its profile, bridging the gap between church and community, members and neighbors and the church with social services."

After trying the volunteer approach in their own neighborhoods, the Whans reported only two people from 150 contacts did not contribute.

"And that was only because they didn't speak English," Norm Whan said.

"Basically, Canning Hunger re-establishes the importance of churches during the founding of America," Jeff Whan said. "The church was the center for feeding, clothing and sheltering the poor. Then everyone started to look to the government for help. Now we can re-establish the church as a strong focal point."

The Whans also decided to ask established agencies to accept the donations. Dividing the county, the food is delivered to the new Salvation Army district office in Brea in north Orange County, to Orange County Rescue Mission in central Orange County and to Share Our Selves in the southern section.

A secondary program, Restore Dignity, has also been implemented. After scanning garage sale classifieds, the Whans phone the sellers and wish them well.

"Then we offer to pick up their unsold items so we can distribute them to charities."

Norm Whan said there was a time when he and his family talked about living in Yorba Linda's Featherly Park, a haven for the homeless. "We were almost down and out," he recalled. "There's nothing worse than tucking a hungry child into bed at night."

A former pastor with the Friends Church denomination, Whan developed Church Growth International four years ago as a compassion ministry. He also trains pastors to build church growth, and offers motivational training seminars.

One of his established programs, "The Phone's For You," uses phone and direct mail to launch churches. Whan has overseen 90 denominations plant 8,000 churches across the country. He has also trained 25,000 pastors in

HUNGER

FROM 12

51 countries on six continents.

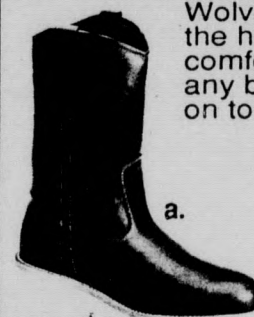

Currently, Whan's time is focused on the Canning Hunger project at the Brea Friends Church and at the Rose Drive Friends and Canyon Hills Friends churches in Yorba Linda.

"We hear people saying all the time that there shouldn't be anyone hungry in this nation. If that's true, then we all need to be doing everything to eliminate it. It's a blight, this humiliation and loss of dignity has to be stamped out," Norm Whan said.

OTTAVIAN: News, notes from around town

FROM 12

What do you think? Valencia High School senior, Seth Williams, will be featured in the weekly Orange County Register Show Section as part of a teen panel that will review movies.

Sure glad they're part of Founders Society! Nita and Erv Godwin have been Founders' patrons since 1987. They're always ready to pitch in, whether it's cleaning the basement, arranging a bowl of flowers or telephoning the whole membership when an emergency arises. They attend almost every occasion, sometimes juggling their travel junkets just to be there to support a Founder's Society activity. And all those activities support the maintenance of Bradford House, our community's grand historic home.

Speaking of Founders Society, it's time to get your 1993 calendars out and circle the following dates to attend the group's (last year's smash hit) chamber music concerts: Craig Gibson, Festival String Quartet, Jan. 24; Linda Owen, string trio, Feb. 28; Silverwood Quartet, woodwind chamber music with harpsichord, March 21; and Peter Zisa, classical guitar music, April 25. Concerts are at 3 p.m. on Sundays and open to the public. I can promise you a grand afternoon.

What's Hank Montelongo up to? Let's see, he just finished a presentation, "Understanding the Probable Fate of Education for the Year 2,000," for Cal State Fullerton's Policy Fellowship Program. Even though your campaign for Placentia School District Board wasn't successful, tell us, Hank, you'll stay active in district doings. And that goes double for Connie Underhill.

Janet Evans was the guest speaker at a recent Rotary Club meeting. She brought along her gold and silver medals that she won this year and passed them around the audience. Janet said she enjoyed herself more at the Barcelona Olympics than at Seoul, Korea... Less pressure. After the games, she said she was totally burned out and has only recently started practicing again. She's away a lot of the time doing public appearances, but will enroll at USC next semester where she will major in communications. Maybe we'll see her in front of the camera asking the questions someday. Most frequently asked questions are "Are you going to compete in the next Olympics?" She doesn't know yet and the answer to the second most asked question is that she thinks that the Chinese female swimmers sudden spurt in growth and strength is highly suspect.

Did you know that Mike Serna has not missed a Rotary meeting in 22 years? Possibly because of great guest speakers like Janet Evans, Al Shkoler was overheard saying. Shkoler is working 6½ years of perfect attendance and by the way doing a heck of a job as Rotarian (I just love that word) newsletter editor.

Home tips

Water damage

On average, households are three times as likely to receive damage from water as they are a fire or any other type of natural disaster.

If a homeowner knows what actions to take immediately following a flood or broken water pipes, furniture and other household items can be salvaged and brought back to original condition.

ServiceMaster, a national commercial and residential cleaning and disaster restoration contractor, offers dos and don'ts for salvaging water-damaged household items.

For water damage, do:

- Use dehumidifiers as available (temperature should be above 60 degrees).

- Use fans to circulate air to assist drying and fight mildew.

- Remove as much water as possible by mopping and blotting.

- Wipe furniture dry; place wood blocks, plastic wrap or foil between furniture legs and carpet to prevent staining or rusting on the carpet.

For a free brochure, "Fire, Smoke, Water — Emergency Clean-up Tips," call 1-800-WE SERVE.

Home contest

More than 1,500 prizes totaling more than $100,000, including a grand prize of $10,000, will be awarded for houses best decorated in the Christmas spirit.

In its first holiday decorating contest, Mr. Christmas, maker of holiday decorations, is looking for those homes with outdoor displays of light sculptures and decorations that showcase the spirit of the holiday season through the use of imagination, animation and more.

For each entry received, Mr. Christmas will donate $1 to Ronald McDonald House.

To enter, submit a photograph of your 1992 outdoor Christmas decorations showing use of at least one of Mr. Christmas Outdoor Light Sculptures, Miniature Light Sculptures or the Lightline Tube of Lights.

For entry forms and other contest information, write: Mr. Christmas Annual Holiday Decorating Contest, 1500 Broadway, 25th floor, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Deadline for entries is Jan. 15, 1993.

DECORATING

HOLIDAY DAZZLE

Sandy Kolobo puts the finishing touches on one of the many Christmas displays at the Yorba Linda Harvest. Kolobo reports her initial holiday sales reflect a surge in elegance rather than traditional trimmings. Other area shops specializing in holiday decorations offer many unique and trendy ideas.

Emphasis is on elegance this Christmas season

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Ever wish Santa's elves could spend one day transforming your home into a miniature wonderland? Or maybe just an hour draping the living room with holiday cheer?

OK, so those dreams are about as far-flung as Rudolph's blinking schnozzola running forever on Duracels.

But an entertaining — and hassle-free — home for the holidays only takes a little ingenuity and a few of suggestions from some of north Orange County's creative retailers who make it their business to help build Christmas memories.

Space to accommodate anywhere from 20 to 200 party guests need not be a problem by installing party tents in the back yard. And to add sparkle to the weatherproof coverings, Barbara Craddock of Create A Party Rentals in Brea suggests the new Twinkle Light Tents.

The portable canopies have clear plastic ceilings topped with dozens of miniature twinkling lights that give the effect of a star-studded, winter sky. Canopy heaters ensure indoor warmth as guests circulate in the cozy environment.

To continue with the sparkling light theme, Craddock floats candles in champagne glasses atop mirrors.

Yorba Linda Harvest owner Sandy Kolbo reports her initial holiday sales reflect a surge in elegance rather than traditional trimmings. Large candle twists in burgundy and green are out-selling the customary tapers.

Hand-quilted moire tree skirts, selling in the $100 range, have become just as popular as Concolino ceramic ornaments, hand-crafted in Lake Arrowhead. And cast-iron stocking holder characters, perched on the Harvest's mantel, hold up to four-pound stockings.

Primitive country ornaments paired with Americana quilted tree skirts are taking centerstage at The Flowery in Villa Park. Sales clerk Billie O'Brien says topiary fruit trees in clay pots are decorating holiday tables. Smaller terra cotta pots filled with miniature dried flowers serve as matching table favors.

The Flowery owner Carolyn Kain specializes in customizing heirlooms with artificial and live arrangements. For example, an old family watering can decorated with gold-tipped artificial poinsettias and trailing ivy transforms a forgotten sprinkler into a gardening treasure.

And for those who are all thumbs when it comes to decorating with greens, The Flowery like many other county floral shops, offers home installation decorating services.

For a more unique and trendy approach to the season, Cheryl Hall of Party Productions of Brea has whipped up theme parties. Rock Around the Christmas Tree calls for an inexpensive burger and fries frolic with Santa arriving in a classic car. The Reggae Christmas edition touts tons of sand, island plants and a sporty Santa resting barefoot beneath swaying palms.

Hall's agenda also heralds Christmas With the Stars, a black-tie blowout with look-alike celebrities primed to dazzle guests with impersonations.

If do-it-yourself is your yule bag, Fullerton craft book author Christine Angeli offers festive ideas at a fraction of retail costs. She shares her ideas throughout the year at 13 Orange County city recreation department workshops, including ones in Fullerton, Anaheim and Placentia.

To make party dinner guests feel welcome, Angeli suggests buying miniature wooden Victorian houses at a craft store, topping the roofs with green moss and personalizing the table favor with the guest's name. She also uses a hot glue gun to attach red and green buttons to clear ornaments for "place cards."

County Fire Department offers holiday safety tips

The Orange County Fire Department wants you and your loved ones to enjoy a safe and happy holiday season. The following tips are offered by the Fire Department to ensure a fire and injury safe holiday.

TREES

A fresh tree will stay green longer and be less of a fire hazard than a dry tree. To check for freshness, remember:

- A fresh tree is green.
- Needles are hard to pull from branches.
- When bent between your fingers, fresh needles do not break.
- The trunk butt of a fresh tree is sticky with resin.
- When the trunk of a tree is bounced on the ground, a shower of falling needles is a sign that the tree is too dry.

The Fire Department does not suggest to rely only on chemical coatings or sprays to flame-proof a tree. Any cut tree, even those treated with flame retardant, will dry out. Daily care and watering help a tree remain fire resistant longer.

The tree should be out of the way of day-to-day traffic and should not block doorways. Large trees should be tied to the wall with thin wires. The base holder should be filled with water to prevent the tree from becoming dry.

LIGHTS

Whether indoors or outside, use lights that have been tested for safety. Each set should be checked for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires and loose connections. Discard damaged sets or repair them before using.

Outdoor lights should be weatherproof. Indoor lights should not be used outside. The lights should be securely fastened to trees, house walls or other firm support to protect from wind damage.

A single extension cord should have no more than three sets of lights. When leaving the house or going to bed, the lights should be turned off.

Electric lights should not be used with metallic trees. The trees can become charged with electricity from faulty lights.

"Bubbling" lights should be kept out of the reach of children. The bright colors and bubbling movement can tempt curious children to break candle-shaped glass.

CANDLES

Never use lighted candles on a tree or near other evergreens. Candles should be kept away from other decorations and wrapping paper.

TRIMMINGS

Only non-combustible and flame-retardant materials should be used. When decorating with spun glass "angel hair," gloves should be worn to keep from irritating the eyes or skin.

Choose tinsel or artificial icicles made of plastic or non-leaded metals. Leaded materials are hazardous if ingested by children or pets.

In homes with small children, special care should be taken to avoid decorations that are sharp or breakable. Trimmings with small removable parts should be kept away from small children. Pieces could be swallowed or inhaled. Artificial snow sprays can irritate lungs if inhaled. To avoid injury, follow directions carefully.

PAPER DECORATIONS AND CHRISTMAS WRAPPING PAPER

When making paper decorations, look for materials labeled "flame-proof." Never place trimmings near open flames or electrical connections. Remove all wrapping paper from the tree and fireplace areas immediately after presents are opened.

FIRES IN THE FIREPLACE

Before lighting any fire, remove all greens, boughs, papers and other decorations from the fireplace area. A screen should be kept before the fireplace at all times, especially when a fire is burning.

Use care with "fire salts," which produce colored flames when thrown on wood fires. They can induce irritation or vomiting if eaten.

For information, call 744-0496.

Neighbors' mail pick-up made easy

GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY — We live in a trailer park, and we often pick up mail for our neighbors.

If they're going to be out for a while, I carry a plastic grocery bag on my arm, put the mail in, and when I get back home, I hang the bag on the back of one of the bedroom doors until the neighbors return. Janie G.

PICTURE THIS — I have a collection of rare books which fills a large bookcase, and I have several other bookcases that are filled with less valuable editions. Before a recent move, I took instant photos of each bookshelf so I would be sure to arrange books back in their original order. This worked out perfectly, and I now have the pictures put away for insurance purposes in case of theft or fire. Jill W.

JUST WALK AWAY — I recently broke my hip and have to use a walker. Here's a tip for others who use walkers. I tied a work apron on the front of the walker and put my portable phone and other items I needed to carry from place to place in the pockets. Henrietta P.

EASY TO SERVE — Here's an easy way to remove jellied cranberry sauce ('tis the season!) from a can with ease and perfection. Simply open both ends of the can and the contents will come out easily. Marian T.

COUPON SENSE — To speed checking out at the grocery store when using a lot of coupons, arrange them according to value — all 50-cent, 25-cent and 10-cent coupons together. Tell the cashier that you have done this, then she can simply multiply seven times 50, 10 times 25, etc. I've had cashiers express sincere appreciation for this and I have an idea the person behind me in line is happy about it, too. Georgia S.

DIVIDE AND CONQUER — To easily peel a rutabaga, cut it into wedges first, then peel it. It's easy! Nancy A.

SADDLE SHOES — Last month, I was invited to a '50s theme party and planned on wearing an old pair of saddle shoes I had in my attic. The shoes still fit but were covered with black marks. Since I didn't have any polish handy, I decided to try toothpaste. I put the toothpaste on an old cloth and rubbed it on each shoe. It actually removed most of the unsightly marks. Melissa S.

DOLL CLOTHES — When I decided to cut my long-sleeved blouses into short sleeves, I used the extra material for doll clothes for my daughter. The wristband made a beautiful waistline for the doll skirts. It was also good as a top for strapless shirts and dresses. Cynthia P.

INVENTIVE SOLUTION — I recently washed a load of clothes in my machine. When I checked to be sure I had removed all the clothes, I saw a shiny pin in the tub of the machine. Not being as flexible as I used to be, I couldn't bend to reach it. As they say, necessity is the mother of invention, so I taped a refrigerator magnet to the end of a yardstick and was able to easily reach the pin. Amelia H.

KEEP TRACK — I take pictures of my young children, but because it is more cost-effective to buy the 24 or 36 exposure film, it may take some time to use it. By then, I forgot when I started it. I solved this problem by marking my kitchen calendar the day I take each picture and note its contents. Now when the roll gets developed, I look on my calendar to date the back of my pictures. Antoinette K.

Guerrilla theater for kids

By Tim Dermody
Features editor

Entertainers aim high anyway, so when Andrea Christian declares she thinks of her National Theater for Children as "Broadway for kids" she does not sound like a woman with her head in the clouds.

Christian knows lofty goals are not necessarily insurmountable ones.

Seven years ago, she converted her garage into an office and founded a small children's theater company. She wanted to stage musicals that would introduce youngsters to the performing arts.

Today, the nonprofit National Theater for Children employs a full-time staff and uses more than 60 independent contractors to present shows in 136 United States cities.

The NTC will stage one of those productions — "Pinocchio" — on Dec. 17 at Anaheim's Celebrity Theater. Because Christian considers her presentations teaching tools, she provides an accompanying NTC study guide. The musical is open to the general public.

Christian possesses none of the astonishment one would expect from a woman who took an idea, transformed it into a fledgling operation and then eventually turned it into a national touring company.

"I'm not really surprised at our success," Christian said recently. "I thought there was a need for children's theater in Southern California and believed that people would take to it. Plus, we have some wonderful entertainers and great production people, and people worked really hard so I guess success was inevitable.

"There was no doubt in my mind that people would take to this; and they have."

The NTC dispatches four touring companies to various parts of the country for 12-week runs. Each production unit consists of a half-dozen cast members and a tour and stage director.

According to NTC figures for 1991, the company performed in front of more than 300,000 people and took in approximately $1 million last year.

The NTC currently reprises five productions: "Pinocchio," "Tom Sawyer," "Robin Hood," "Babes in Toyland" and "Wizard of Oz." Last month, the NTC presented "Tom Sawyer" to an enthusiastic Celebrity Theater crowd.

Local residents make entertainment headlines

By Tim Dermody
Features editor

At different times throughout the week we receive newsy tidbits and other items of interest concerning north Orange County residents involved in various area entertainment ventures.

Though most do not merit full-blown stories or exposes, each and every one of them is at the very least, newsworthy.

So without further ado, let us clear out those files. Here's what some of your north Orange County friends, neighbors and acquaintances are doing in the entertainment business:

The Orange County High School of the Arts in Los Alamitos recently staged a fall concert to honor

Panasonic for its contributions to the institution's instrumental music department.

Participating in the show were Jennifer Marciniak, Gregory Codrington, Joshua Yeh and Tiffany Reinbolt from Anaheim; Fullerton's Beth McLean; and Jennifer Hill of La Habra.

Earlier this month, award-winning pianist So Young Ahn presented an energetic classical recital at Orange Coast College.

The talented young pianist currently studies at Cal State Fullerton under the direction of Dr. M'lou Dietzer.

Two local high school students were recently treated to a backstage visit at the Opera Pacific production of "La Boheme."

Joining the cast in a post-performance gathering were Esperanza High School students Angie Chen and Tony Hsu, who attended the event with classmates as guests of Opera Pacific's outreach program.

In that same vein, students from several area high schools recently participated in an art-and-music program sponsored by the Newport Harbor Art Museum.

Contributing to or attending the program were students from Loara, Sunny Hills, Western, El Dorado, Valley View and Kennedy high schools.

An Anaheim Hills man has been appointed to the Orange County Performing Arts Center board of directors:

Local businessman Mark C. Johnson joins the board for a term slated to expire in April, 1994. Johnson was recently named Entrepreneur of the year by Merrill Lynch.

Orange resident Kyle Cunningham recently returned home from Florida with a degree from the Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Clown College.

One of only 1,200 graduates throughout the world, Cunningham was trained in acrobatics, make-up, juggling, unicycling, costume design and prop building.

In restaurant news, the general manager of a new Italian restaurant in Costa Mesa has an Anaheim background.

CURTAIN CALL

A glorious Christmas

Crystal Cathedral musical a sumptuous event

By Peggy O'Hara
Correspondent

Spiritual inspiration is the foundation of "The Glory of Christmas," now celebrating its 12th anniversary at the Crystal Cathedral in Garden Grove.

The seasonal pageant commemorating the birth of Jesus Christ is also spectacular, dramatic and dazzling. The show is produced by the Garden Grove ministry founded by the Rev. Robert H. Schuller in 1955.

This year's "Glory of Christmas" is impressive again. Presented in the 13-story, 2,600-seat glass church in Garden Grove, it boasts one of the world's largest indoor sets:

It is 80-feet high and 124-feet wide and uses scads of various materials to recreate first-century Palestine, King Herod's palace and the Nativity scene. Thousands of tiny lights comprise a starry sky.

More than 200 volunteer extras join a cast of professional actors, dancers and singers — and an animal menagerie that includes camels, horses, sheep, goats, donkeys, cows and oxen.

During several points during the production, flying angels soar out of Cathedral corners and pad effortlessly through the sky overhead.

All the major characters are portrayed: Mary and Joseph; the three Magi; King Herod and his syncopants, courtiers and courtesans; Roman calvary soldiers; shepherds and field maidens; and various townspeople, children and other minor players.

The cast uses 17 musical numbers to relate the story of Jesus' birth. Though the singers have beautiful voices, there often is too much booming amplification.

The obviously accomplished dancers perform a combination of modern, ballet and period-piece movements. Choreography normally plays second fiddle in seasonal productions, but the dancing in "Glory of Christmas" is fitting and, indeed, often integral.

As one might expect, the costuming is often sumptuous — especially that worn by the royal players.

Written, directed and produced by Paul David Dunn, a dramatist and biblical scholar who is also Schuller's son-in-law, "Glory of Christmas" is part Bible story, part historical piece and all theatrical extravaganza.

Playing three times daily (with the exception of Dec. 24 and 25), "Glory of Christmas" closes Dec. 30.

Critic casts vote for Murphy's latest

By Larry Katz
Correspondent

While President-elect Bill Clinton prepares to move into that big white house at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., movie superstar Eddie Murphy is taking up residence in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The American people sent Clinton to Washington D.C. in the November election, but Murphy arrives on his latest vehicle, a comedy called "The Distinguished Gentleman."

Murphy plays a Florida con artist who decides that high-powered politics would suit a man of his talents just fine.

When incumbent Jeff Johnson (played by James Garner) passes away, Murphy — as Thomas Jefferson Johnson — decides to capitalize on his last name. The voters recognize it, elect him and send him to the nation's seat of government.

As the film unwinds, it becomes a funny, if predictable, satire on United States politics. With Murphy amusing in his inimitable manner, the film skewers politicians, lobbyists, the media, big business, functionaries and capital syncopants.

Murphy's character, who entered politics for personal gain, becomes more honest and forthright as the story unfolds. His political awakening reveals to him the plight of the little people and the sleaziness of the big ones.

"The Distinguished Gentleman" might have benefitted from more judicious editing. It is a bit too long.

Nevertheless, director Jonathan Lynn ("My Cousin Vinny") has fashioned an entertaining vehicle for Murphy. Despite the obvious shenanigans, the film goes out of its way to deliver its message.

A distinguished cast compliments Murphy's performance: Lane Smith plays a corrupt committee chairman and Sheryl Lee Ralph succeeds in portraying Murphy's assistant.

"The Distinguished Gentleman" has just enough votes to merit my support.

THEATER: Troupe reworks classics, keeps

good, right on the kids' level and all the parents thought it very appropriate," said Jennifer Swoap, who teaches third-grade-level students at Orange's El Dorado School for the Gifted. Swoap took her class to the Celebrity to see "Tom Sawyer" last month.

She added: "They select really good parts of the story — the most exciting ones that they think kids will like — and the kids respond to that. It's definitely beneficial. It's great for kids to see real actors and real productions instead of those they see on TV all day."

In addition to providing the initial theater experience for many, the NTC reworks stories to include multicultural messages. Embracing diversity as the norm, NTC presentations disdain unflattering stereotypes and negative images found in much of American literature.

For instance, in "Tom Sawyer," Jim and Injun Joe are race-less characters whose origins and nationalities are secondary to their plot contributions: In fact, a blonde-haired, blue-eyed boy plays Jim.

The actions and conversations of exploitive characters are rethought; and women rewritten as more appropriate models. Environmental concerns are explored, violent scenes replaced with verbal sparring and witty non-combativeness.

But think again if you believe that NTC productions are nothing more than heavy-handed, politically correct puff pieces.

"We present characters in a different light but in truth we are really just updating them," said Christian, a white Jewish woman whose multicultural sensibilities were honed after her marriage to a Jamaican man 10 years ago.

"But we also do a lot to keep the children's attention. We have glitzy costuming and professional sets and production and we do everything we can to keep their interest. We have large sets, elaborate strobes, fog machines, bubble machines. It's really very eye-catching."

The daughter of Philadelphia performers, Christian cut her teeth on children's theater: Her mother is the founder of the competing American Theater Arts for Youth, which recently celebrated its 25th anniversary.

Christian describes herself as a "backstage baby," someone weaned on the performing arts. She played on the sets of her parent's production company and studied acting and playwriting in high school and college.

After graduating from San Diego State University with a degree in environmental design, Christian, 36, began looking to re-enter the entertainment field. Recalling her roots, she founded a children's theater group out of her San Diego garage.

The former one-person operation now enjoys all the trappings befitting the world's second-largest theater company for children:

Gone are the garage headquarters, in its place spacious offices replete with computers and fax machines. Accountants, secretaries and publicity people now assist her fulltime.

And NTC seems to be headed for more future glory.

"We've grown at a steady pace and I think that will continue for a while," she said. "Costs go up — and that's scary. And running a business knowing that people depend on you for their livelihood is also a little nerve-racking."

"But we have a good concept and a good product. And we really want to spark an interest in theater for the kids."

SPORTS SHORTS

The Yorba Linda/Placentia YMCA is accepting registrations for a Women's Soccer League.

This year, there will be two age divisions — a new division for women 18-24 as well as one for 25 and over. Games start in March, with registration being accepted through January.

For information, please call Mike Miles at the YMCA, 777-9622.

The Placentia/Yorba Linda Girls Softball Association (formerly the Bob-etts) are having signups for the 1993 softball season Dec. 12, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Koch Park in Placentia.

Girls ages 6-16 as of Sept. 1, 1993 are eligible, with proof of age required for all new players.

League divisions are T-ball, 8-and-under, 10-and-under, 12-and-under, 14-and-under and 16-and-under.

Everyone plays and everyone is placed on a team best suited to their ability. Practices begin in Feb., with games scheduled for March through May. Games are played at Shapell and Koch parks.

The costs are $60 for the first child, $50 for each additional child.

Also, adult volunteers are needed for managing and coaching, and the league offers coaching manuals and clinics. If you have any interest in volunteering, or you have any questions, call the "Softball Hotline" at 993-7547.

The National Sports Foundation is offering a new publication to help guide prospective scholar athletes in their quest to move to a four-year university after high school two years of junior college.

Over 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships are available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes. Contrary to popular belief, students don't have to be all-state to qualify. In fact, much of this money goes unused.

The new publication includes forms, sample letters and tables of factual information to assist student athletes in applying for these scholarships. It takes them step by step through the process of getting a scholarship and includes colleges and conference listings.

For information, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to NSF, 611A Willow Drive, P.O. Box 940, Oakhurst, NJ 07755 or call (908) 493-1949.

Valencia will play for another football title

By Bob Cunningham
Sports editor

It shouldn't come as a surprise that Valencia High will play for the CIF Southern Section Division VI football championship Friday night at Citrus College in Glendora.

The Tigers, who will face unbeaten Duarte, have been there before under head coach Mike Marrujo. In 1988, they played well but lost to Corona Del Mar. Last year, they whipped Tustin to win the title and finished the season a perfect 14-0.

Marrujo has guided Valencia into the division semifinals eight times in the past decade.

"Obviously, we're very pleased to be in the final. We started out slowly, but the kids have really come around."

But 1992 was supposed to be different. Valencia wasn't returning a wealth of talent like it had in past years. Marrujo was going to have to teach a relatively new cast how to play the part of champions.

And the Tigers have had their share of lesson time. First, there was the 14-0 loss to Division I Servite. That was a game that snapped Valencia's 15-game winning streak and taught the squad that its reputation alone wasn't enough to win games, or even be competitive.

Then the low point of the season came a week later, a 31-3 loss to archrival El Dorado. That debacle appeared to mark Placentia's two prep football programs headed in opposite directions. One taking the steps up from mediocrity to serious title contention, the other scaling back into mediocrity after so many successful seasons.

Valencia was "the other."

But the Tigers rebounded from the El Dorado defeat by reeling off one-sided victories over El Centro Central and La Mirada, a team playing for the Division VIII crown this weekend.

Valencia then had its first league test, against much-improved Western. Orange League followers thought a changing of the guard might be in order, but instead the Tigers dominated, 33-14.

Two weeks later, Valencia took a four-game winning streak into the potential league title showdown with Anaheim. The early-season rough spots figured to be distant memories for the Tigers but Anaheim, coached by former Marrujo disciple Todd Borowski, had its way all the way, 31-0.

Valencia hasn't lost since, winning its final two regular season games to claim a share of the three-way tie for the league crown, then dispatching three foes in the playoffs, including No. 1 seed Covina Charter Oak in the quarterfinals.

Duarte will take a 13-0 mark into Friday's final. The Mission League champion lists Anaheim among its victims, routing the Colonists in the quarterfinals, 32-7. Duarte defeated Santa Fe in the other semifinal Friday.

"We've got to slow (Duarte) down. I don't think anyone can stop them, but we've got to slow them down. We've got to stop them from busting those 50 and 75-yard plays. That's what they've been doing. They're a big-play team."

In Saturday's 19-9 semifinal win over fourth-seeded Whittier, the Tigers trailed, 9-7, going into the fourth quarter before taking the lead for good when Rob Petko hit Ace Riggins on a screen pass that turned into a 22-yard touchdown jaunt.

After Whittier marched into Tigers territory on their next possession, Valencia's defense, as it had in so many playoff games before, stiffened.

The Tigers took over on downs and shortly thereafter, Chris Draft broke loose from Whittier's intimidating eight-man front and sprinted 62 yards for the game-clinching touchdown.

Other than the long TD run, Draft was held to 34 yards on his other nine carries.

CIF SS DIVISION VI CHAMPIONSHIP

Matchup: Valencia (10-3) vs. Duarte (13-0)

When: Friday, Dec. 11, 7:30 p.m.

Where: Citrus College, Glendora

Directions: Take 57 freeway north to 210 freeway west. Exit Citrus Ave. and turn right on Base Line. Turn left on Barranca, then go two blocks to college stadium on left.

Game Notes: Valencia defeated Whittier, 19-9, to reach the final. Duarte, undefeated and the No. 2 seed, edged Santa Fe, 31-28... Valencia is the defending division champion, defeating Tustin in last year's final.

Valencia quarterback Rob Petko is shown above scrambling during a game earlier this season, but it was his passing that helped the Tigers reach Friday's CIF-SS Division VI championship game.

Rebuilding project could succeed now

Valencia forced to go with new cast of matmen

By Rusty Evans
North County News

Some programs are going through a rebuilding year, but Valencia High wrestling coach Kent Lillenberg is taking that notion one step further.

"We've got some heavy construction going on," Lillenberg said, noting the defending league co-champion Tigers lost all but two wrestlers from a lineup that was runner-up at the CIF 3-A tournament and seventh in the state. "All the teams in the league will be good except Valencia and Anaheim. We'll be fighting it out with Anaheim."

The Tigers (23-11-1 overall, 4-0-1 league) lost four of their five state meet qualifiers, including CIF Southern Section Division III champions Hugo Amaya and David Quintero, and Lillenberg is looking to the future.

If Valencia's team hopes are dim this season, the brightest spot will be at 119 pounds, where Jim Provencio returns.

Tomazic the man to guide Hawks to top

New coach has old ties with El Dorado mats

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

The disadvantages of Todd Tomazic serving as first-year coach for El Dorado High's wrestling team are difficult to find.

Unfamiliarity with the powerhouse program can be disregarded. Tomazic, 23, is an alumnus, having graduated from El Dorado in 1987.

Lack of wrestling experience isn't a factor. Before graduating, Tomazic, a four-year varsity wrestler, won consecutive CIF State championships at 167 pounds in 1986-87. He then wrestled against NCAA opponents while enrolled at Notre Dame.

So some might say he'd be out of touch with the high schoolers by now.

"I can still talk to these kids," Tomazic said. "I get in there and wrestle and show them moves. There's an excitement here, it's almost a friendship. At a lot of meets, you see the players separated from their coaches. These kids hang out with me and my staff as much as they hang out with themselves."

Whether or not that togetherness and Tomazic's experience will be enough to gain El Dorado a second consecutive Empire League championship is the issue facing the Golden Hawks.

"We'll be a very formidable team," Tomazic said. "It's difficult for me — having never seen (league rivals) Esperanza or Katella wrestle — to judge and say that we'll win. All I can judge is my wrestlers and by the commitment they're putting in."

Hawks eye winning year

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

The important facts about El Dorado High's girls basketball team suggest a potential season of success:

■ The Golden Hawks were semifinalists in last season's CIF Southern Section III-AA division playoffs after a 19-7 season that included being runner-up to Cypress in the Empire League.

■ Jody Caruso, El Dorado's senior shooting guard, is a returning all-league player.

■ Jamie Sweet, El Dorado's junior guard/forward, is a returning all-league player.

■ In all, four starters are back from last year.

■ El Dorado scored a 69-25 rout over El Modena, the two-time defending Century League champion, in this season's opener.

"Our whole philosophy is that we play hard every time we take the floor," Golden Hawks second-year coach Gary Raya said. "We try to improve every practice and game and we think by doing that, winning and losing will take care of itself."

Seizing the league title from Cypress is the task at hand for El Dorado, but it will be a challenge considering the Centurions return three all-league standouts.

By enhancing the Golden Hawks' strengths, though, Raya said accomplishing the goal isn't out of the possibility realm.

"Caruso and Sweet give us the best perimeter game in the

With only two weeks to prepare, the start of the girls basketball season came very quickly for Kelly Stephenson.

The first-year coach at Valencia High took over the program on Nov. 16 and has been playing catch-up ever since.

Valencia bombed out of the Savanna Tournament, losing both of its games by a single point, but that may allow the Tigers to catch their breath.

"I think it's kind of a mixed blessing," Stephenson said. "We have a week until our next game, so that will give us time to work on some things."

One of those things is offense. Senior Nikki Kubota scored 30 points in the Tigers' first game and has averaged 19.9 points in the subsequent three games — more than half the team's points.

"There's not a lot of game experience among the players," Stephenson said. "With the younger players, they get in the game and they're a little shaky. We're missing a lot of shots because most of the players haven't shot in varsity games with two players trying to stuff them before."

In addition to Kubota, Tina Sauitufuga and Bridget Shulte, a pair of 5-8 seniors, also start, along with 6-0 La Quinta Alexander and 5-3 Cindi Judd, both sophomores.

With a total of eight underclassmen on a team off to an 0-4 start, it appears to be a classic rebuilding year at Valencia.

But with some time still ahead to get prepared, Stephenson said anything can happen in Orange League play. Well, almost anything.

Golden Hawks' final seven games and helped buoy the playoff run.

First-year starter Angie Conley, a 5-6 senior point guard, replaces four-year starter Briana Yoshina, who graduated.

Tallying team-high assist totals and bringing the ball upcourt against opponents' pressure are stringent demands for a first-year starter.

"Conley never got a lot of time at our point guard spot when Briana was here, but she's coming along well," Raya said. "If she remains healthy, we'll be all right."

Newcomer sophomores Kim Korsmeier, a 5-9 guard, and Michele DeBruijn, a 5-10 forward, are pivotal players in Raya's scheme.

"The key for us is we play hard defense and score off the fast break," Raya said. "You need help from your teammates to do those things. If we can use 10 girls consistently, we'll be OK."

The 44-point victory over El Modena was a symbol for Raya of all that can be right with El Dorado's game plans.

"It's all defense," Raya said. "We change up and do different things every time down the court. It all keys on playing hard and together."

on at 112 and placed fifth in the state. He has moved up to 119, where he is a favorite to bring home the league championship.

Junior Tony Fry is also a defending league champion, earning top honors last year at 140. Fry, who came within one match of placing at the CIF-SS 3-A meet last season, has moved up two weights to 152.

Lillenberg said most of the other weights are wide open at the moment, but not all of them.

Joe Rios, a senior, and Mohammed Lenjavi, a junior, both started for the Tigers last year and each placed fourth at his weight. Rios is wrestling at 140 this season, and Lenjavi is at 171.

At 112, junior Johnny Espinoza is a returning letterman who won the league's junior varsity championship at 103 last season.

Sophomore Coty Southern is likely to fill the void at 125 left by Quintero after a year on the JV team, and Richard Rios is a possibility at 135.

Lillenberg said that while the individual talent level in the league is down, team competition will be fierce.

EL DORADO: Has new coach

FROM 28

"The desire is there and I'm pleased with what the kids are learning. From that standpoint, I'm convinced we can beat anybody. But only time will tell."

El Dorado returns six starters, two of which Tomazic said he believes will challenge for CIF Southern Section championships, or berths in the state meet.

Seniors Kirk Offell, at 125 pounds, and Joe Lipps, at 171, are that pair.

"Kirk's the first guy to lead the warm-ups, he's enthused," Tomazic said.

Lipps is a two-time defending league champion who participated in the Los Angeles Watts Games and won an offseason wrestling tournament in Northern California. He underwent knee surgery recently, but Tomazic said he doesn't expect pain to persist throughout the season.

The Golden Hawks' other returners include seniors Tommy Noel (119 pounds), Nayif Abdullah (160) and Jung Lee (heavyweight). Junior 112-pounder Rich Harvey is also back.

Newcomers expected to start include Harvey's twin brother Rob at 103, Abdullah's sophomore brother Ish at 145 and junior Roger Padilla (189).

"A lot of guys are battling for the open middle weights," said Tomazic, who replaced Arnold Alpert, now an assistant wrestling coach at Arroyo Grande High.

"I think I can bring a little more intensity to the team," Tomazic said.

CP037699 NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: Helen K. Patton CASE NO. A166735

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: Helen K. Patton

A PETITION has been filed by Janet E. Guarino in the Superior Court of California, County of Orange.

THE PETITION requests that Janet E. Guarino be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on December 31, 1992 at 1:45 P.M. in Dept. 703 located at 341 The City Drive, P.O. Box 14171, Orange, CA 92613-1571.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Future of OC real estate debated

More than 200 area real estate agents, brokers and managers attended a conference on Dec. 4 concerning the future of Orange County's residential resale real estate market.

The conference, titled "Focus on the Future," was billed as the first of its kind in Orange County.

"There have been local conferences on new residential construction and commercial and industrial properties, but ours was the first that focused exclusively on the state of the Orange County residential resale marketplace," says Joe McDonald, advertising director for the North County News, one of the event sponsors.

Other sponsors included Orange Coast Title Company and Pam Bunning of Renet Financial.

"The goal was to provide area professionals with a 'reality check,' some hard facts about the local market that would help them to get a better grasp on the market and to be of better service to their clientele," McDonald said.

Speakers included Steven Epstein, regional risk manager for GE Mortgage Insurance Companies; Christine Taylor, manager of Economics and Market Analysis for the California Association of Realtors; a panel of five area real estate professionals, each of whom will have his or her best year ever in 1992; and Mark Sheer, real estate sales trainer.

Patrick Veling's PROPERTY LINES

Epstein spoke about GE's experience in the Texas and New England markets, and compared those markets to what is currently taking place in Southern California.

"We see more differences than similarities, but Southern California is definitely at risk for a continued correction in its real estate values," Epstein said. "The Texas and New England corrections followed a two- to three-year period of only minor adjustments in values, a lot like what we've seen locally."

"The next 12 to 18 months should be critical. We can't continue to lose one percent or more in value monthly and expect buyers and lenders to maintain a sense of confidence in the market," he said.

Taylor sees permanent changes being carved into the Southern California real estate landscape.

"There are still incredible opportunities in real estate for licensees, investors and owners," she said. "It's just that the rules have changed quickly, and few have responded fast enough."

She cites local developers who have capitalized on the increasing importance of the first-time buyer in today's marketplace. "Those who are building well-designed homes in the first-time buyer price range are selling at slab or sooner," she said.

"The same buyer is a candidate for resale property, but only if the seller is realistic enough to compete. Sellers have no control over their competition, only over their expectations," Taylor said.

Her sentiments were echoed by the conference panel. The panel included Mike Bonfils, Century 21 Yorba Station; Cynthia Freeman, RE/MAX of North Orange County; Barbara Greenfield, First Team Real Estate; Steve Kendrick, Lincoln Realty; and Pat Rojas, RE/MAX Real Estate Services.

Each of the panelists discussed techniques to succeed in the current market. Although marketing techniques differed among the group, there was one common denominator: the motivation of the seller.

"The current market has forced us to change our job description," says Bonfils. "We no longer sell homes. Our job is to motivate a purchase offer. The rest is up to the seller."

Sheer ended the conference with a selling skills presentation titled, "Motivating Sellers in a Rapidly Changing Marketplace."

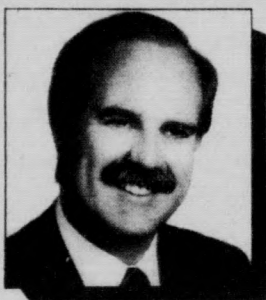

"There's no script for it, no magic formula," Sheer said. "A seller's motivation is determined by your ability to get the seller to understand the market reality."

"If you've done your homework, if you know the market and have the objective information to support your position and the seller still won't get realistic, it's time to walk away. Let someone less talented than you waste their time with a seller who can't or won't appreciate the knowledge you bring to the process."

The conference was held at the Embassy Suites Hotel in Brea, and will likely be repeated next year.

Realtors on the move

Open house set by Realty World

Realty World-Classic Properties will host an open house on Saturday. The event is Classic Properties' thank you to the North Orange County area for its support throughout the years. It is also an invitation for visitors to discover Classic's Victorian office site and its staff.

In the spirit of Christmas, Realty World-Classic asks those attending the open house to bring an unwrapped gift for children, ages 5 to 15. The gifts will be donated to Child-Help U.S.A., a nationally funded organization which facilitates the care and treatment of abused children. There is a demand for such items as curling irons and big stuffed animals.

Realty World-Classic's office will be transformed into a Christmas winter wonderland for the event. It will be decorated in jeweled tones of ruby and emerald. Santa will be on hand to greet all children attending. Holiday music and entertainment will be offered, too. Refreshments will be provided by La Vie En Rose of Brea.

Realty World-Classic is located at 502 W. Palm Drive in Placentia. Hours for the open house are from 2 to 6 p.m. An RSVP is requested and can be made by calling (714) 993-6040.

Diego Mendez is recognized

Diego Mendez of Century 21 Able has been recognized as a successful agent with the Anaheim reality firm. Using a motto that he is an "Agent of Action," Mendez has been rewarded with many accolades by both his office and Century 21.

Among his top awards is the coveted "Centurion Award," a distinction of honor earned by less than one percent of the agents serving more than 6,500 offices in the international Century 21 organization.

"Diego is one of the best agents I have ever had," said Century 21 Able Manager Hal Schlegel. "He has very strong negotiating skills, years of experience and a willingness to use creative marketing techniques."

Undaunted by the economic downturn, Mendez said, "I see the current events from a positive perspective and feel that with prices going down it just puts that many more people into a position to qualify to purchase a first home or to move up into one that better suits their family needs."

Mendez, who speaks fluent Spanish, can be reached at 774-7800. His office is located at 2122 E. Lincoln in Anaheim.

Grisham new service program succeeds

Century 21's Quality Service Program, unveiled in March, has been a success, according to Randy Grisham of Century 21 Grisham-Joseph.

Grisham said that his firm "joined 5,000 Century 21 offices worldwide to implement an aggressive strategy designed to position our organization as the leader in quality services. The changes have met with favorable response from our customers and clients."

The program includes a survey of virtually every client doing business with Century 21, according to Grisham. The survey, taken at the close of a sale, enabled clients to evaluate service provided during their real estate transaction. Grisham said initial results have been positive. Most clients and customers reported they are satisfied with the service provided by their Century 21 office.

Another feature of the program is the Century 21 Seller Service Pledge certificate given to every client who lists their home for sale with a Century 21 office. This is a written promise of the services the sales associate will provide to market the property.

DISCOUNT MORTGAGES

WE HAVE LOW RATE -0 POINT-MORTGAGE LOANS AVAILABLE
SAME DAY LOAN APPROVAL

First came the Discount Grocery Clubs, then the Home Improvement Clubs and now, the NSR (No Sales Rep) Mortgage Club. The 1990's customer is only interested in three things, PRICE, PRICE, and PRICE. At NSR Mortgage we've eliminated the Sales Rep and passed the savings right down to the borrower cutting out the add-on commission. Each NSR mortgage office has three employees; the manager, the underwriter and the loan processor. Since the overhead is lower, more savings are passed down to the borrower. Because no loan brokers are involved, the closing fee's are cut in half. The borrower gets the WHOLESALE PRICE in a retail market. The best part is, instead of dealing with a sales rep or mortgage broker who can't make any loan approval decisions, you work directly with the Branch Manager who makes all the approval decisions and closes your loan fast. NSR mortgage is a direct lender and a Member of the General American Financial Network, servicing over One Billion Dollars in Mortgage Loans. If you want quick answers, low rates and low closing cost fees, plus meet face to face with the seasoned Mortgage Loan professional who approves all the loans, call for the NSR Local Banker nearest you.

Century 21 to restructure

By Rob Perez
The Orange County Register

Century 21 Real Estate Corp., the huge national home seller, said this week that it is restructuring operations to improve service to customers.

The Irvine-based company said it plans to split 13 company-owned regions into 32 and create seven new divisions that will provide administrative support for franchise owners.

The goal is to eliminate most "back-office" administrative chores to allow region managers to concentrate on training, marketing and other services directly beneficial to franchise owners, the company said.

Century 21, which handles nearly 10 percent of US residential real estate sales, said all region managers will be responsible for fewer franchises. Regions will encompass an average of 75 to 100 franchises, compared with the current 300. That will enable regional executives to better serve their areas, said Richard Loughlin, president and chief executive.

The Orange County market will be affected by the reorganization, scheduled to be implemented Jan. 1 and take several months to complete. Previously, the county was included in a region that covered southern Los Angeles County and San Diego County. Now each will have its own region.

Several Orange County Century 21 brokers said they expect the restructuring to have little effect on their businesses.

An additional 40 to 50 people probably will be hired for the restructuring, while up to 100 current employees will be reassigned, Loughlin said. The company also will be looking for about 15 new offices nationwide.

Rates as of Dec. 3, 1992. All loans listed are conventional 30/30 for loans below $202,300 except as specified in the "Notes" column. Points are the per cent of the loan balance paid to the lender at the time of loan closing. For fixed-rate loans, borrowers are advised to compare lock-in features; for adjustable programs ask the lenders if the loan has the potential for negative amortization as well as other important factors such as the index, margin, caps, insurance and lock-in. Lender Type is: B=bank; K=mortgage banker; R=mortgage broker; S=savings & loan. Mortgage bankers and brokers are licensed by the California Department of Real Estate as either a broker or corporation. For more information call Calif. DRE at (916) 739-3758.

All Annual Percentage Rates (A.P.R.) are calculated by Mortgage News Co. based on a $202,300 loan amount, the points as shown and $700 total fees. An A.P.R. is an estimated annual cost of the loan to the borrower, and they are included in this chart for comparison only. When applying for a loan, Federal Truth-in-Lending law requires lenders to calculate an A.P.R. specific to each loan offer. All quotes are not an offer to enter into a loan agreement. All rates are subject to change; verify rates and terms prior to applying for a loan. All lenders charge other fees in addition to those shown, as well as provide loans with different rates and terms for different loan amounts. For a consumer guide on how to shop for a mortgage, send $4.50 check payable to Mortgage News Co., 1505 East 17th St., Suite 211, Santa Ana, CA 92701. If you have questions please call (714) 836-1177.

La-Z-Boy Galleries offer showcase style and a different way to shop for Christmas

A pleasant shopping experience awaits shoppers at La-Z-Boy Furniture Galleries in Anaheim, Costa Mesa and El Toro, according to John Walz, president.

Walz said that Furniture Galleries has done things a bit differently. "We've tried to create the kind of furniture store that we would want to shop in ourselves. Your home is important to you. Your needs are important to us."

The size of the stores has more than tripled, allowing the Galleries to showcase a huge selection of La-Z-Boy furniture and accessories, Walz said.

He noted that unlike other stores, the Galleries do not try to jam their merchandise into as small an area as possible. "We display each piece in a room setting so the customer can get a feel for how each individual piece or grouping might look in the home." He said that each style, from traditional to contemporary, is presented with a full complement of tables, lamps and accessories to help the shopper visualize a wide variety of decorating ideas for the living or family room.

Full service is a tradition at Furniture Galleries, Walz said. Each Gallery is staffed with courteous, knowledgeable, highly trained sales counselors, he added. "That's quite a difference from the warehouse-type stores, where help is hard to find when it's needed, where customers carry their furniture to their cars, and sometimes have to assemble it themselves."

La-Z-Boy has been America's leading manufacturer of upholstered furniture since 1927, according to Walz. That's when the first reclining chair was produced. However, he notes that La-Z-Boy makes more than reclining chairs.

Walz said La-Z-Boy Furniture Galleries have a large inventory of La-Z-Boy sleeper sofas, love seats, corner units, dual-reclining sofas and a wide variety of selected lamps, tables and other accent pieces, in styles and sizes for every room.

John Walz, president of La-Z-Boy Furniture Galleries, shows off some of merchandise he has stocked for the Christmas rush.

GIFTS FOR MEN

Beyond the necktie and other ideas

Buying Christmas gifts for men used to be fairly routine: get him a tie, a sports jersey or a shirt, and everyone was happy.

That was then. Now the options are plentiful. The only rule: Consider giving gifts that reflect a man's interests — be it sports, workstyle or hobbies.

Clothes make the man. And this Christmas the fare is widespread, whether it's for the traditionalists, the "hip" or the sportsman. Add the cornucopia of fragrances available and the comfortability of new shoe designs, dressing the man this year should be an easy task.

Men also love gadgets. Pocket-sized technology is in this year, from calculators and telephone directories to video wireless transmitters that double as a security system or VCR programming. And there's always the walkman cassette/radios.

Fitness gear, especially for home use, has become innovative. Some great equipment helps exercisers get into shape faster. And don't forget the accessories that add comfort and safety to training programs.

Men still love traditional gizmos. Inexpensive gift ideas include a car-washing mitt, an emergency lantern, new mats for the car, a trunk organizer, among many others.

Handyman gifts that are a bit more expensive include an air compressor for spray painting, a table saw, sander or gardening tools.

Don't forget sporting goods. A variety of hot fishing equipment is stocked on store shelves this year. Handy items include various Swiss army knives, a godsend for the outdoorsmen, who can also use the Extractor, a small suction pump that removes venom from a snake or insect bite.

Men who love sports are easy pickings. Golf nuts love anything pertaining to their sport. Baseball fans enjoy getting a jersey or hat. Football aficionados would turn on the electronic games such as "Mike Ditka Power Football" or "John Madden Football."

GIFTS FOR GROWNUPS

Give gifts of books, videos and calendars

By Debra Baldwin
Copley News Service

The best gifts cost little, yet offer great value.

Books, videos, audio tapes, records and calendars expand the imagination, treat the senses and provide hours of enjoyment.

And this year the selection is so extensive you're certain to find something for everyone on your list. The following can be found easily, quickly — and at minimal expense — in book, music, video, gift and/or variety stores.

Third Market unique center for gifts

For more than 15 years Orange County residents have had access to Lladro and Hummel figurines at Third Market. The Third Market also has a selection of crystal and China, including more than 2,000 unique and hard-to-find pieces. The largest dealer of its kind in the county, Third Market often stocks frequently discontinued items.

Third Market opened its doors for the first time in 1979 on Tustin Avenue. "In 1990, we moved to Chapman Avenue," said Michael Nash, owner, who with his wife, Janet, and son, David, operate the business.

Nash recalls the beginning of the involvement which led to the opening of Third Market. "I was in the stock and commodity markets for a numbers of years. One day I received a call from a friend who said that Hummel plates were going up in value." I asked the friend if she could guarantee it and she said yes.

"I have always enjoyed spending money on valuable investments. The plates and figurines always seemed to be something I could enjoy as well," he said. Shortly thereafter the Nash family began a mail-order business in their home and the demand was overwhelming. "People would actually come to the house to pick up the merchandise and we were forced to get a storefront location on Tustin Avenue. We expanded our store four times on Tustin and outgrew the location within 12 years. We now have more than 20,000 pieces worth $2 million in our warehouse, not to mention a mailing list of more than 15,000 customers from Vermont to Hawaii."

Nash warned that time is running short for Christmas shoppers and recommends that they visit his shop now while many sought-after gifts are still in stock. Third Market is located at 1100 W. Chapman in Orange, just west of Batavia. The hours are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, from noon to 5 p.m.

For more information, call (714) 639-3200.

BOOKS

Name an interest, and there's a lavishly illustrated gift book on the subject.

Some examples: "Baseball, The Perfect Game" by Peter Richmond (photos by Danielle Weil, published by Rizzoli); "Let There Be Clothes: 40,000 Years of Fashion" by Lynn Schnurnberger (Workman); "Volkswagen: A Week at the Factory" by Peter Keetman (Chronicle).

Publishers know a gift market when they see one; they're now providing volumes in gift boxes.

From Penguin are boxed sets of the works of Ken Follet, Robin Cook and Stephen King — among many others.

Animal lovers will revel in the new James Herriot book, "Every Living Thing" (St. Martin's Press), plus these two cookbooks from Berkeley: "Cat Nips! Feline Cuisine" and "Dog Bites! Canine Cuisine," both by Rick and Martha Reynolds.

For stocking stuffers, consider one of Running Press' elegant

Holiday Helpfuls

First Fake Trees

About a third of families opt for artificial trees during the holidays. Pioneers living on the barren prairie in the 19th century fashioned trees out of sticks, which they decorated with ornaments and precious evergreen boughs. (CNS)

Holiday Toddy

Fill your home with the spicy scent of the holidays by making this easy beverage. Fill a large pot with apple cider, add three or four cinnamon sticks and a dozen cloves. Heat slowly, but don't boil. When the brew is piping hot, serve in mugs with a splash of rum. (CNS)

In The Basket

It's fun to give gifts in a reusable basket. And baskets are easy to decorate. One idea is to use a hot glue gun to attach the pine cones to the outside of a small basket. Fill the basket with gold cellophane grass and nestle your gift inside. (CNS) miniature editions; titles include "The Sonnets of Shakespeare," "Quotable Women," "The Wit and Wisdom of Mark Twain" and Clement C. Moore's "The Night Before Christmas."

From Lombard Marketing are mystery jigsaw puzzles packaged with matching short stories — such as "Death by Diet" and "Murder Most Artful," both by R.D. Zimmerman. Clues in the puzzles solve the mysteries.

Two must-haves for parents (or whoever hosts family gatherings): "101 Ideas for the Best-Ever Christmas" and "1001 Things to Do With Your Kids," both by Caryl Waller Krueger (Dimensions for Living).

Also for the holidays: "Wreaths 'Round the Year Book & Kit" by Dawn Cusick (Sterling/Lark); "My Christmas Treasury" by Norman Vincent Peale (HarperCollins) and "Gourmet's Holidays and Celebrations" by the editors of Gourmet magazine (Random House).

VIDEOS

Stores that rent and/or sell movies are everywhere; the gift potential they offer is limitless.

The MGM/UA 1992 Home Video Catalog, available at many video vendors, lists more than 1,000 titles dating from 1924 to the present.

Look for boxed gift sets of series, such as the three "Godfather" movies and the five "Star Trek" adventures (both from Paramount) — and for gift sets featuring stars (Audrey Hepburn, John Wayne, Jerry Lewis, more).

For romantics: MGM/UA Home Video is honoring "Casablanca" with a special 50th anniversary edition. For the holidays, how about "It's a Wonderful Life" (Republic Pictures Home Video).

How about TV on tape? Paramount now offers "Star Trek: The Next Generation," episodes 1 through 22. And CBS Video has a clever idea: video greeting cards. This season, Television Video Cards incorporate a Christmas episode from "I Love Lucy," "The Honeymooners," "The Twilight Zone" or "The Beverly Hillbillies" along with a built-in card.

Send someone on a world tour with vacation/travel guide tapes from Fodor's, Reader's Digest Video, Rand McNally, Travelogue and Video Visits (to name a few).

Even Berlitz now teaches French, Italian, German and Spanish via video.

For golfers, there's PGA Home Video (MPI Home Video); for bird-watchers, Bird Watching Guides (National Audubon Society); for royal-watchers, "Tears of a Princess: The Inside Story of Princess Diana's Life and Heartbreak" (Strand Home Video).

AUDIO TAPES

Know someone who uses a portable tape player or has a tape deck in the car? Give 'em a new audiocassette or two.

You might buy some blank tapes and, using your own stereo system, create special tapes with customized selections — for example, all the gentle music (skip the ponderous, crashing pieces) from John Barry's "Dances With Wolves." Let the recipient's tastes be your guide.

You'll find a huge selection and great deals on music tapes at record stores, but keep in mind that much more than music is on tape.

Almost any popular book title, past or present, is available; newly released audiocassettes are even rated according to demand, just like new songs and best-selling books.

Publisher's Weekly lists volumes 1 and 2 of "Star Wars" ("Heir to the Empire" and "Dark Force Rising," from Bantam) as top-ten hits; another fiction best seller is Tom Clancy's "The Sum of All Fears" (Simon & Schuster), read by David Ogden Stiers.

Non-fiction best sellers include "Me: Stories of My Life" by Katharine Hepburn (Random House) and Gloria Steinem's "Revolution From Within" (Dove Audio). Here's a bonus: Both are read by their authors.

RECORDS

Capitol has just released a special limited edition compact disc of the Beatles' first single, "Love Me Do," with two versions of the song and flip-side hit, "P.S. I Love You."

New releases from Rhino include three additions to the popular "Disco Years" series (for a total of five); "The Very Best of Buddy Guy"; "Bo Diddley Beats"; "The Best of Tracey Ullman"; "Alice Cooper Live at the Whiskey"; and "Otis Redding: Love Man and Tell the Truth."

Rhino also recently released an Aretha Franklin "Queen of Soul" box set (four 70-minute CDs plus an illustrated, 80-page career-overview booklet).

Totally non-traditional are Mojo Nixon's "Horny Holidays!" (Triple NiXXXon Records) and the finger-snappin', hand-clappin' "Street Carols" doo-wop album from Street Gold Entertainment.

ADVICE

Think before picking that Christmas toy

By Jane Clifford
Copley News Service

Tired of all those toy commercials yet, and the "gimmies" that inevitably follow?

As your kids' wish-list grows longer, and your time and patience grow shorter, heed the advice of a woman who's an expert on the subject. Toys, that is.

Joanne Oppenheim is an author, former educator, senior editor with the Bank Street College of Education, and toy and child development expert. Maybe even more important, she's a mother and grandmother.

The first question Oppenheim wants you to answer is: How many of the toys under the tree last year do your children still play with this year? Better yet, how many moved from under the tree to under the bed in less than 48 hours?

She pretty much knows the answer. That's why she wrote "Buy Me! Buy Me!", the Bank Street Guide to Choosing Toys," and, a couple of years ago, decided to put her knowledge to work by creating the "Oppenheim Toy Portfolio." The guide includes lists of toys, books and video, descriptions, play and learning value, prices, and where to find them — all broken down by age group. It is published quarterly to help parents choose toys for children from birth through age 8.

Toys they will play with more than once. "There is less room for mistakes this year," Oppenheim says, in a reference to a tight economy and even tighter toy budgets. "If you get it right the first time, instead of guessing, you are really saving money."

Here's how to do it:

- Buy toys that are age appropriate.

Oppenheim says to look at the box for that information, but also to be aware that some manufacturers are stretching the limits. If you think it looks too complicated for your child, follow your own instincts.

- Don't buy just what the kids want.

The kids get their ideas from TV and some of the best toys are

Spring Crest offers gifts that last

Sometimes folks have difficulty thinking of things to give to that special someone for Christmas. They pore through seasonal catalogs and browse through stores in North Orange County, but the answer still escapes them.

Ed and Marilyn Agee said that draperies and wallpaper are great gift ideas. They're gifts that can be used after Christmas with a gift certificate from Spring Crest Drapery in Yorba Linda.

The Agees purchased a Spring Crest Drapery franchise in July 1975 in Lomita. Their skill in creating, manufacturing and installing unusual designs soon turned the Lomita store into one of the top design centers of more than 300 worldwide. Their current store in Yorba Linda has won awards in special designs throughout the country.

A family-owned business with daughter, Carol, and son, Dave, makes special creations available at reasonable prices.

Spring Crest utilizes a special spring pleating system to create a unique look in drapery design. Topping it off is the 10-year warranty on the hardware, exclusive in the drapery industry.

Marilyn Agee offers all types of special designs and top treatments including Roman shades, swags and cascades. She is the author of "Exit 1007," an explanation of Bible prophecies that predict end of time events and when they will happen. The book was published in April and is available at Spring Crest as well as in bookstores across the nation.

Carol Agee is the in-home drapery designer and has inherited the creative talents of her mother.

Dave Agee also is artistic and does most of the installations with some help from his dad, Ed.

Spring Crest Drapery is located at 17540 Yorba Linda Blvd., Yorba Linda.

A TRADITION

East Anaheim Center to host Santa Claus

"Santa has become a tradition for the community," said Hazel Peterson, manager of the Boston Store. "East Anaheim Center supports the community that supports us." So, Santa's workshop will be open again this through Dec. 23.

The Center will continue the workshop despite similar programs at larger malls in North Orange County. Rosalie McCormick, advertising director and property manager of East Anaheim Center, said "We're not trying to compete with the Region Malls, we're just trying to fill a void."

"With the drastic changes in the economy, more families are shopping in their neighborhood centers. Having Santa at East Anaheim Center takes the pressure off parents to drive across town and wait in long lines!"

Last year, East Anaheim Center's Santa hosted more than 3,000 children. He gave away more than 3,500 antlers and took more than 1,000 Christmas photos. The Center's Santa expects to break some records this year.

East Anaheim Center's Santa is available for special appointments for preschools and children's homes. For information, call the Center's management office at (714) 956-3411.

ADVICE: Choosing a toy needs thought

FROM 8

made by companies that can't afford to advertise on the tube.

Gustavo Blankenburg owns a toy shop. While he's in business to sell toys, he uses the same criteria as a parent that he does as a businessman.

"Kids ask for the toys and parents go along with what the kids want," he says. "It's a fact of life that Nintendo lives with us. My kid plays with it, too."

"Buy what they want and then buy some other things that are going to be good for the kids and the family as a whole."

• Get something child-tested.

In other words, take your kids to a toy store and see what they choose to play with, and for how long. Do you have to drag them away from something? Both Blankenburg and Oppenheim say that's an excellent indication of long-term play value.

"We send the toy or book or video home with real families and ask for feedback," Oppenheim says. No toy gets in the portfolio without that step, which eliminates the trendy toys that are nanosecond novelties.

• Buy paperbacks of the classics of children's literature.

Oppenheim says that many of the hardcover books are available now in paperback and "it's a way to beat the recession and still build your child's library."

• Shop around.

Oppenheim's toy guide includes items available at toy supermarkets as well as specialty shops and mail-order houses.

Helpful hints to make decorating tree easy

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Given the vast selection of baubles, balls and other bijoux, one might say deciding what to put on the holiday tree is tougher than finding a gift for Great-Aunt Martha.

Maybe you're just seeking a few ornaments to add to your already vast collection. Then again, you might want your tree to sport an entirely different look this holiday season.

Whatever your purpose, the following guide can help you zero in on the right ornaments:

- Go with a theme: You can find ornaments inspired by practically every theme imaginable. A few examples include regional themes — such as country or Southwestern, storybook themes such as "The Nutcracker," foreign themes, animal themes and color themes.

- Think unique: If you're purchasing just one or two new ornaments this year, consider an antique or one-of-a-kind bauble. Search secondhand emporiums, off-the-beaten-path boutiques, fine gift shops, flea markets and craft fairs for possibilities.

- Create a collection: An ornament collection displayed on a tree not only makes for a put-together tree, but offers its owner an easy way to update every year. Glass blowings and dolls are among the many possibilities; some manufacturers offer new ornaments every year for collections they've created.

- Go for flash: Ornaments that use lights, motion, music and even synthesized sound to create cute and clever holiday scenes can be found in many gift shops.

- Trim the treetop: Since the top of the tree is often forgotten in the midst of furious decorating, why not make an effort to find the perfect ornament for this celebrated spot? Angels and stars, of course, are traditional, but there are many other options from which to choose.

- Ornaments to make: Whether you're tightening your belt on Christmas spending or simply getting back to basics, this may be the best year yet to make your own holiday decorations. Craft stores and fabric shops are full of ideas for ornaments that can be stitched, quilted, embroidered, painted or even folded.

- Ornamental feast: The traditional gingerbread man still holds a lot of clout in the 1990s. Other edible possibilities include chocolate ornaments wrapped in colorful foil and whimsical hand-painted cookies to hang that are either made or purchased.

THINK ECONOMICAL

Get mileage from a tight-money economy

By Alison Ashton
Copley News Service

When money is tight — either for you or for the recipient — you want to get the most mileage out of your gift purchases. Here are some tips for making gifts work harder:

• Buy gifts that do double duty. For someone who travels on business, give a small hair dryer that can go on the road.

• Look for quality. Children's toys should be made of sturdy materials like hard plastic or wood so they can be handed down to younger siblings. Clothing purchases also should be classic, not trendy, items that will last several seasons.

• Give gift certificates for everyday items. In addition to gift certificates for department and other retail services, give certificates for services, like dry cleaning, or for groceries at a high-end grocery store.

• Give one gift to an entire family. Rather than buying separate items for each member, give something they all can enjoy, like an ice-cream maker, a picnic basket or a game.

• The gift of culture. Buy someone a year's membership at an art museum or zoo. Other options include season tickets to the opera, philharmonic or theater.

• Cater to an interest. Magazine subscriptions are an affordable way to fuel someone's special interest for an entire year.

• When money is really tight, give your time. Baby-sitting time for a family with young children is a really valuable gift. Or offer to run errands for a grandparent once a week, or to detail a friend's car. Someone who sews well can offer to alter and/or repair clothing.

The Festival ready for the holidays

North Orange County's newest shopping experience is ready for the holiday season.

The Anaheim Hills Festival, an open-air shopping center one third the size of Disneyland, celebrates its first holiday shopping season by bringing national, regional and local retailers to the largely residential north county area.

Shoppers will find the Festival filled with a wide variety of gifts, holiday cheer and family activities. Scheduled holiday activities include visits from traditional holiday characters on Saturday, Dec. 5; an ornament decorating booth on Saturday, Dec. 12, and Santa's visit on Saturday, Dec. 19.

The new center was originally designed as an enclosed mall. Major retailers anchoring the complex are Target, Mervyn's, Pavilions, Edwards Eight-plex Theatre, Marshalls, T.J. Maxx, and Three D Bed & Bath.

"The Festival offers area residents up to 30 specialty stores, restaurants and services," said Brad Geier, development director of TWA Anaheim Limited Partnership, the project developer. "We're delighted with the Festival's strong tenant mix."

Other stores in the center include, Clothestime, SuperCrown Books, Payless ShoeSource, Patini Shoes, Don Thomas Jewelers, The Discovery Zone, Canyon Surf & Sport, Primo Hair Design, Polo Cleaners, Express Alterations, Golden Spoon Yogurt and more.

The 600,000-square-foot center is the largest retail development completed in Southern California this year. The Festival brings more than 1,000 jobs and an overall economic lift to the area at a time when the unemployment rate in California has risen to 9.4 percent.

TRADITIONAL TIMES

How the world celebrates the holidays

By Alison Ashton
Copley News Service

How does your family celebrate the holidays?

If you adorn the house with evergreen boughs, you're observing a tradition that goes back to the Romans. Decorating trees probably started in Alsace in 1605.

Even if your family doesn't opt for a traditional celebration, chances are you observe certain regional customs. In the Southwest, you might light a walkway with cheerful luminarias (which are easy to make by nestling a candle in sand in a paper bag).

In Louisiana, where French traditions are strong, children anxiously await the arrival of Pere Noel in a sled drawn by alligators. Other Southern families incorporate magnolia leaves in their decorations. In the Midwest, trees are hung with fragrant applesauce-and-cinnamon ornaments.

If you want to investigate holiday history or incorporate regional customs into your celebrations, there are a number of books to help.

"An Old-Fashioned Christmas"

by the editors of Country Home magazine (Meredith Books) highlights regional celebrations, as well as history. "Christmas in the Heartland" by Marcia Adams (Potter) focuses on Midwestern traditions, while "Southern Christmas" by Emyl Jenkins (Crown) honors the holiday in Dixie.

WHY DECEMBER?

Although Christmas is the holiday designated to celebrate the birth of Christ, there is no record of the exact date of his birth. So why celebrate in December?

Historians speculate that the Christian holiday gradually replaced an ancient Roman winter festival called Saturnalia, when people gathered to celebrate the end of the harvest season.

They prepared special meals, decorated their homes with greenery and exchanged gifts. Sound familiar?

However, Christmas wasn't always a popular holiday in America. Puritans of the 17th and 18th centuries refused to celebrate the holiday because it isn't found in the scriptures. And in 17th century Boston, holiday observers were finer. English colonists who did celebrate weren't in the habit of exchanging gifts.

It was the German immigrants of the 19th century who helped make the holiday a popular religious and folk celebration.

SANTA BY ANY NAME

American children love Santa Claus, and good children all over the world expect someone to bring them gifts. British children hang their stockings on Christmas Eve in anticipation of Father Christmas.

French kids put their shoes in front of the fireplace. If they've been good all year, Pere Noel fills them with gifts. Meanwhile, the family attends midnight Mass, followed by a late meal called Le reveillon.

Russian children look forward to visits from Grandfather Frost.

In Germany, children receive sweet treats from St. Nicholas on Dec. 6. St. Nicholas also visits children in the Netherlands on Dec. 6, but he is accompanied by a rather nefarious sidekick, Swarte Piet (Black Pete), who serves as a reminder of Holland's past occupation by Spain.

Epiphany (Jan. 6) is gift-giving time in Spain and Italy. On Jan. 5, Spanish kids leave their shoes by a window and wake in the morning to find the Wise Men have left them small gifts (it helps if they leave treats for the Wise Men's hungry camels). Le Befana, a kind old witch, brings presents to children in Italy.

ENTERTAINING

Tips for planning a sparkling celebration

By Letitia Baldrige
Copley News Service

The holidays are a time for people to come together — to answer the human need for get-togethers of one's close family members and friends, or of people one hasn't seen for a long time.

The holidays are, therefore, not only for children, but for adults who enjoy the advent of joyous reunions. The holidays may also be the loneliest, saddest time of the whole year for those who don't have the great fortune to be a member of a loving family.

During the holidays, we should particularly reach out to those who are lonely, without a family or who have had bad news during the past year (illness, a death in the family, a job loss and the like). How I wish I could finance a vast fleet of skywriting planes to spell out a message overhead all over the country: "Entertain your friends — now."

There are numerous entertaining ideas for the holiday season, and these are but a few:

- A trim-the-tree party in your home from 3 to 6 on a Sunday afternoon for people of all ages. Coffee, tea and soft drinks would be served (in cold climates, hot chocolate for the children, too). Also popcorn, cookies, candy canes and little gingerbread men.

Everyone would be made to "work," which might consist of putting one ornament on the tree, but the tree decor would be a communal effort with, of course, guaranteed splendid results.

- A cocktail party at home for everyone in your office if there is no office Christmas party this year. You would invite everyone in your section, from the mail-room clerk to your divisional head, and have people bring their spouses or dates.

Many companies are doing without office parties this year, so you will become a big hero if you — alone or with a group of colleagues — carry on the tradition. Hold the party in the home of whoever has the most space or lives the closest to the office.

You can serve a minimum of food (just some munchies will do it) — and only eggnog or wine punch if an open bar is too expensive.

Make the hours of your party short ("from 5:30 to 7"). Make it a simple affair that is not too close to Christmas. (Later everyone becomes too busy.) If you want more lavish food than you can afford to serve, ask colleagues to pitch in and bring some hors d'oeuvres.

- A caroling party held for your friends and their children. Have them come to your home by 4 o'clock, go through a rehearsal, hand them the lyrics, give them their marching orders, and then go out to sing in a group throughout the neighborhood.

Return by 6:30 to your home for hot soup and sandwiches (cocktails for the parents), and then everyone can go home by 7:30.

- A Christmas Eve supper, for which people dress in "casual attire" (which could be anything from jeans and sweaters to warm bathrobes). Give each guest a gaily wrapped little present at his or her place at the table (anything from a tiny jar of strawberry jam to a new kind of inexpensive pen).

Keep the menu simple, manageable and inexpensive (a heaping bowl of hot pasta, for example, plus a big green salad, a gooey dessert, wine and coffee).

- A dress-up (black-tie) Christmas Eve dinner for people who are old enough not to have the problem of excited children at home in the care of reluctant baby sitters. Have lots of candles around, champagne and a caterer to serve a rather grand meal.

Do something dramatic like buy some gold lame, have it made into a shimmering tablecloth, and watch how beautiful the china, silver, crystal and holiday decorations look against it.

- A Christmas Day lunch after church for family and/or friends, complete with a tiny gift at each place, a festive place card, table decorations galore and a wonderful big turkey with all the fixings.

An invitation for this meal is perhaps the biggest compliment of all to a non-family member. For someone who is feeling blue, it is instant and effective therapy.

- A Saturday night cocktail party in late December for everyone in the neighborhood or in your apartment complex or whatever. There is a steep mood letdown right after Dec. 25, so a "cheer-up cocktail party" soon after Christmas is great fun for everyone.

G.I. Joe is back

By Molly Woulfe
Copley News Service

Ten-hut!

The classic G.I. Joe, 12 inches tall, is reporting back to duty in Toyland after a 14-year leave of absence.

His weapons and uniform are flashier, but the original "Real American Hero" still sports a scarred right cheek and dog tags, and stands ready to defend the American Dream.

Early reaction to the revived veteran "was phenomenal," Hasbro Inc. spokesman Wayne Charness said. "It was a sellout as fast as they could put it on the shelves."

The scarred Joe and his buzzcut comrades were retired from the domestic market in 1978 due to rising costs for petroleum, a major manufacturing component. They were reintroduced as dinky, 3 and three-quarter inch action figures in 1982, a move that annoyed boys and girls alike, as many a miss — sorry, Ken — preferred to pair Barbie with a man in uniform.

The three new Joes and their arch-rival retail for about $20 each and are aimed at children age 5 and up. Army Master Sgt. "Duke" wears a desert terrain uniform and helmet. Black Beret ranger "Stalker" is dressed in jungle gear, and commando "Snake-Eyes" is in a ninja combat suit. Their nemesis, the hooded Cobra Commander, sports a cobra insignia on his neon-blue dress uniform. Only a limited number of dolls will be sold, Hasbro officials said.

Each figure is equipped with a small arsenal of futuristic weapons with electronic special effects. Pacifist groups have complained about these accessories before, and Hasbro expects a new wave of protests.

"They're certainly entitled to their opinion," Charness said.

Hasbro sent a squad of foot-high Joes last year to a Minneapolis chain to test consumer reaction, he said. Nostalgic Baby Boomers marched off with them for their children.

The original G.I. Joe arrived on the scene in 1964, and the line quickly developed to include Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine fighters. More than 230 million figures and 110 million vehicles have been sold worldwide.

Over the last few decades, the plastic warriors have "battled" foes like the space alien Intruders (1976), the evil Dreadnoks (1985), and Cobra and his Python Patrol (1989). In recent years, Joes — who can't be the good guys without a gang of bad guys around — have opposed environmental polluters and drug dealers.

Tall Mouse big on merchandise, reputation

"The Tall Mouse has everything." That's the general reaction from customers as they browse through the vast array of merchandise which includes hard-to-find items, jewelry, ribbons, needle-

Featuring more than 22,000 square feet of party goods, floral, craft and art supplies, Tall Mouse is a family-owned business celebrating its 25th year in the North Orange County area. Owner Marion Oehlman said the firm's commitment is to keep a full stock of every imaginable type of craft need and assuring customer satisfaction.

between 6 and 9 p.m., giving a forum to those who want to try new crafting ideas and learn new techniques. Some classes available include plaster and bisque painting and bridal or floral and wreath arranging. Instruction is free. Students need pay only for materials.

In addition to the free workshop, Tall mouse offers a full line of classes in tole painting, cake decorating, china painting, knitting and crochet, fabric and t-shirt painting, basketry, airbrush painting, eggery, rubber stamping, bow making, porcelain flowers, jewelry making and seasonal instruction.

Class schedules are available at the store, located at 17506 Yorba Linda Blvd. (at Valley View), Yorba Linda. For more information, call (714) 996-0101.

BRIEFLY

Sit-Down Celebrations

According to Hallmark, most holiday entertaining consists of sit-down dinners with relatives and close friends. Buffets and casual parties are the second and third most popular ways to entertain. (CNS)

Friendly Gatherings

The average holiday party has 18 guests. More than a third of all families will entertain during the holiday season. (CNS)

Paper Partyware

During the holidays, according to Hallmark, most hosts opt for convenience; 90 percent of informal gatherings use paper partyware. At more formal fetes, look for a combination of paper goods with silver and crystal. (CNS)

O Tannenbaum

The practice of decorating trees during the holidays dates back to 17th century Germany, when they were festooned with paper roses, fruits and sweets. Colonial Americans decorated their trees with gingerbread cookies, candy and ornaments; even outdoor trees were covered with apples and strings of popcorn. (CNS)
